Kiyose Says Japs Didn't Surrender Unconditionally

Question Is Raised in Defense Challenge of Court's Authority

By MORRIS LANDSBERG
TOKYO, Monday, May 13 (AP)—The question of whether Japan surrendered conditionally or unconditionally became the sharply-debated central point in the defense challenge today of the Allied war crimes tribunal's authority.

Chief Japanese Defense Counsel Ichiro Kiyose argued, and her top statesmen agreed to yield with the belief they themselves would not be prosecuted as war criminals.

"Surrender of Japan was utterly and entirely without condition," Chief Prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan replied.

Condition of the surrender, Kiyose asserted, included trial only of violators of then-existing international law—barring prosecution of crimes against peace and against humanity.

Keenan told the tribunal that examination of two Japanese communications delivered to the Swiss government at the time of the surrender "will show that the surrender was without condition."

Under paragraph 13 of the surrender ultimatum, agreed upon by the Allies at Potsdam: "We call upon the government of Japan to proclaim now the unconditional surrender of all Japanese armed forces and to provide proper and adequate assurances of their good faith in such action." The ultimatum for Japan is prompt and utter destruction.

Challenging the jurisdiction of the international war crimes tribunal, Kiyose told that body that the Potsdam declaration was accepted only with the understanding that the punishment of war criminals would be based on then-existing international law.

Over the objection of Chief Prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan, Kiyose was allowed to discuss the question of Japanese aggression in Manchuria. He said he could not understand why Manchurian charges were included in the current Allied indictment, because the state of Manchukuo, established by Japanese policy there, had been recognized by Russia and other countries.

He concluded by asking that charges of crimes against Siam be stricken because Siam is not and was not an Allied nation, and the tribunal consequently "has no jurisdiction."

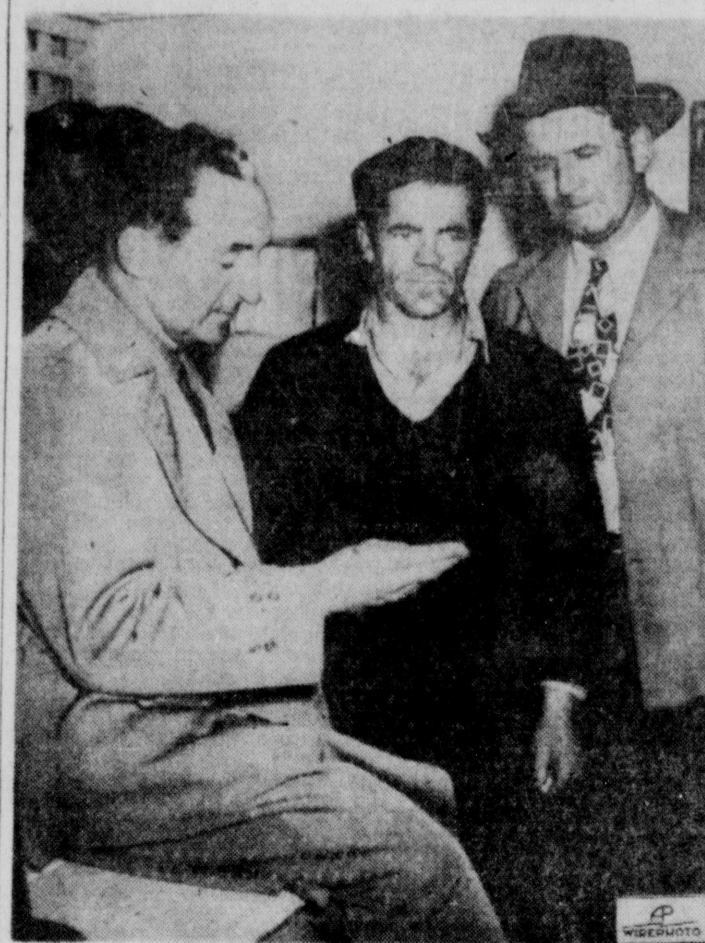

Speaks for All Defendants
As the white-haired Japanese attorney began his argument, he protested that the Allies were "overstepping the bounds of international law" by including charges of crimes against peace and crimes against humanity.

Kiyose spoke for all twenty-eight Japanese defendants.

Under terms of the Potsdam agreement, he said the Allies could prosecute all war criminals guilty of violating accepted laws and customs of war. But the agreement, Kiyose continued, made no provision for new categories contained in the indictments. These hold the defendants responsible for inciting war and for mistreatment of Allied peoples.

Stressing the nature of Japan's capitulation the high-voiced attorney declared:

King Farouk Greets Abdicated Head of House of Savoy in Egypt

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS
ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 10 (AP)—Vittorio Emanuele, a little man in a gray suit, departed today from an Italian cruiser and began his exile in Egypt, leaving behind him almost forty-six years as monarch of Italy.

The abdicated head of the House of Savoy and his former queen, Elena, were greeted by King Farouk, then were whisked away quietly by automobile to a guest palace provided by the Egyptian ruler.

(In Athens, steps were taken which will decide the fate of still another European monarch. The government fixed September 1 as the date for holding a plebiscite on the return of King George II to the Greek throne from his exile in London.)

The Italian cruiser, escorted by one destroyer, arrived in Alexandria harbor at 6 a. m. It was boarded immediately by Murad Moiseem Pasha, of the Egyptian royal household.

People Must Pay Penalty For Unsound Government Financing, Lane Says

BALTIMORE, May 12 (AP)—W. Preston Lane, Jr., Democratic gubernatorial candidate, said today he believed in keeping Maryland "solvent through balanced budgets."

"I have long believed that business principles must be applied to the operations of government, if disaster is to be avoided," he said. "No family, no private business, individual or corporate, can be operated on unbalanced budgets without meeting ruin."

"There is no way in which governments can escape the results of unsound financing. In the long run, and no matter how long, the people must pay the penalty."

Two Bludgeoning Victims May Have Been Buried Alive

Confessed Slayer May Face Two First Degree Murder Charges

By CHARLES MARENTE
GRANT, Mich., May 12 (AP)—Sheriff Robert D. Hart disclosed today he was investigating the possibility that two bludgeoning victims whose bodies were found near here Friday may have been buried alive.

Charles Gilbert, 35-year-old foundry worker, has admitted the slayings in a signed statement to Prosecutor J. D. Murphy. Murphy said he would seek two first degree murder charges against Gilbert Monday in the deaths of his wife, Gladys, 26, and his stepdaughter, Karen Greenwald, 4.

Hart said the fact that Karen's feet were protruding from her shallow, sandy grave indicated that she kicked them free after she was buried there with her mother April 19. The protruding feet led to the discovery of the bodies by a passerby.

Gilbert maintained the theory "couldn't be true," according to the sheriff, but admitted he became jittery after striking the two over here near the Lake Michigan shore that night.

Hart quoted Gilbert as saying "it would be a hell of a thing to bury them alive."

At Lansing Dr. Le Moyne Snyder, medico-legal advisor to the state police, discounted the sheriff's theory, saying "there's no evidence to support it."

"The injuries were of a nature that they would have killed quickly," said the state expert who examined the bodies.

Gilbert, who is held in the Newaygo county jail, meanwhile told officers he was doubly sorry—that he had killed the two and that he had neglected to remove a lock of hair from his wife's neck.

The tiny gold locket contained pictures of herself and her husband, leading to the identification of Gilbert a short time later Saturday, Murphy said Gilbert readily confessed the slayings.

Split May Delay Report by Pearl Harbor Probers

Committee Is Said To Be Sharply Divided on Prospective Findings

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The Pearl Harbor committee today was reported so sharply divided on prospective findings that it may have no report on its inquiry before the June 1 deadline fixed by Congress.

Seth Richardson, committee counsel, has laid before the ten senators and representatives a lengthy summary of evidence bearing on both sides of major controversial points raised in months of hearings on the naval disaster which ushered in the war with Japan.

Richardson's report, obviously intended to be used as the basis for committee findings, has provoked varied interpretations by members. Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said he does not see how the group can get together on any recommendations within the next three weeks.

"The Senate has a great deal to do before June 1," he told a reporter. "We have labor legislation before us, an OPA measure on the way, the draft extension yet to be decided and appropriation bills to handle. We're going to need more time to write the kind of report that should be made."

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), chairman of the group, said he still believes a report can be drawn in the remaining time but Sen. Lucas (D-Ill.) reported that no progress has been made thus far.

Sen. George (D-Ga.) said he had urged that the committee get to work immediately on what he feels should be a "largely factual" report with some recommendations for changes in the military setup.

Summary of Evidence
While Ferguson said he regards Richardson's report as merely a summary of evidence without any specific recommendations, George told a reporter he read into it indications that the counsel feels that, if any, blame should be attached to the late President Roosevelt and former Secretary of State Hull for the surprise the Japanese achieved.

George said Richardson stressed the responsibilities undertaken by Mr. Roosevelt in connection with the shooting war then going on in the Atlantic.

He interpreted the counsel's memorandum, George said, as indicating the belief that Hull gave the armed forces about all the warning possible that war was imminent.

Wherry Declares U. S. Military Data Lacks Safeguards
WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Sen. Wherry (R-Neb.) today reported "shocking" evidence that safeguards surrounding American military information are inadequate.

A Senate Judiciary sub-committee, which heard the evidence behind closed doors during the last month, hopes to complete this week a bill to tighten up the thirty-year-old espionage law to bring it in tune with the age of radar and the atomic bomb.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss.) told a reporter the aim is to get the measure in shape by Friday.

Marshall Holds Absolute Veto Over China Loan

Truman Grants Power to Envoy To Back Up U. S. Policy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall is holding an absolute veto over a $500,000,000 American loan to China, it was learned today.

It is one of the strongest grants of power ever made by a president to an American envoy to back up United States policies in a foreign country.

The Chinese loan is cited by diplomatic authorities as a striking example to the extent to which President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes have carried their new policy of bargaining for American aims with American dollars.

Polish Credits Are Suspended
In another application, the State department has suspended credits to Poland—involving $90,000,000 in cash and surplus war property—until it can determine whether the Polish government intends to grant promised political freedoms.

Some decision on the Polish situation may be forthcoming this week. Under investigation chiefly are charges that the Communist-dominated Polish government has a censorship on outgoing political news, which Polish diplomats here deny, and that it withheld from the Polish people word of the political freedom pledges it made to get the American money.

On still another financial front, Treasury Secretary Vinson, French Negotiator Leon Blum and export bank officials may make the financial decisions this week necessary to release about $650,000,000 to France and make available war goods and other credits to give the French a total assist of substantially more than $1,200,000,000.

French Officials Influence
While officials are wary on the subject, every indication is that the timing of the loan announcement will be made with an eye to maximum effect on the French elections in June. Privately, American officials make no denial that they would like to strengthen foreign Minister Georges Bidault's Popular Republican Movement and Leon Blum's Socialist party against the Communists.

In the case of China, the loan is being used directly for political effect. When Marshall was sent to China last December Mr. Truman announced that the United States would regard financial aid for China favorably to the extent that the Chinese put their house in order.

Marshall is said to regard his problem as being to bring the central government and Chinese Communists together in the interest of strengthening China. The loan, which was about ready for export-import bank action, was held up and Marshall was assured of his full control over that as over all other aspects of American relations with China under the president.

Westinghouse Workers Ratify New Contract
NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Ratification of a new contract between the Westinghouse Electric Corporation and the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America (U. E. R. A.) was announced by the union tonight, officially ending the 119-day strike of the company's 75,000 employees.

Edward Matthews, the union's international representative in charge of Westinghouse negotiations, said fifty-three locals in fourteen states approved the contract, which was agreed upon May 9 in Pittsburgh.

Matthews said gains for the workers included an eighteen-cent-an-hour wage increase and union security, and asserted that the union would launch a nationwide campaign at once to organize non-union electrical industry workers.

Bowles Will Urge Truman To Restore Food Rationing Unless Prospects Improve

Hoover Returns from Senate Committee World Survey; Anderson Renews Warning Will Begin Work On OPA Measure

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Stabilization Director Chester Bowles plans to recommend that President Truman restore food rationing in August unless prospects for meeting famine relief commitments improve quickly.

He believes, said a high official who asked to remain anonymous, that it may become necessary to ration meat, butter and cheese, and possibly bread—the latter for the first time in this country's history.

Bowles' views on rationing became known today as former President Herbert Hoover returned from his round-the-world survey of food requirements and headed promptly for a conference with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who met him at the airport. Hoover declined to comment on the conditions he found or on his recommendations pending a conference with President Truman tomorrow.

Another arrival was Herbert Morrison, president of the British council. He issued a statement at the airport saying he had "come here on behalf of the British government and people to discuss with the president how the cause for which you and we fought victoriously in this war can be saved from being dragged down into defeat by world famine."

In London, the political correspondent for the World, quoting the "highest authority," reported that Morrison will ask the president to ration meats and fats in the United States.

Anderson meanwhile renewed his warning that depletion of the nation's grain reserves requires a reduction in production of livestock products if famine abroad is to be prevented next winter.

Describing the food outlook in a CBS broadcast, Anderson reported "every indication that the world food shortage will continue until the 1947 harvest."

"We must make a choice between feeding starving people and maintaining our livestock numbers at record levels. Our choice, obviously, must be in favor of people," he said.

Hopes for Early Agreement Fade Despite Pressure From President

John L. Lewis and Operators Hold Another Fruitless Session

WASHINGTON, May 13 (Monday)—(AP)—A government-imposed embargo on most freight was lifted today as resumption of soft coal mining under a strike truce promised railroads fresh fuel supplies.

Most of the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners, idle forty-two days while John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, negotiated with operators on terms of a new contract, planned to return to the pits today. In Pennsylvania, however, a big block of the miners voted to remain on strike.

The freight embargo, imposed last week as coal reserves dwindled, prohibited all freight shipments except fuel, food and a few other essential commodities. It was lifted at 12:01 a. m. today.

Also lifted at the same time was a post office restriction limiting the weight of parcel post packages. Lewis and the operators, urged by President Truman to reach agreement not later than Wednesday, are to resume negotiations at 10 a. m. There was scant hope they would meet the president's deadline. The two sides had another fruitless session Sunday.

Coal Controls Are Planned
Government officials proceeded with plans for coal controls. "The coal expected during the truce, originally forecast at 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 tons, is ticketed for priority needs only, and dimouts and other conservation steps remained in force."

Lewis and the operators conferred for two hours in keeping with Secretary of Labor Schweinfach's request. Edward P. McGrady, special government conciliator, described the result as "talk." The deadlocked issue still is the $3,000,000,000 back holiday pay Lewis asks. While "talk" is necessary to negotiate a new contract, both sides said privately there seems little chance that a settlement could be reached by Wednesday, the day fixed by Mr. Truman for a report.

On that day the draft act—with the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes act as a shirt-tail—will expire unless the House acts swiftly to concur in the Senate extension. The Smith-Connally act has been the basis of presidential seizure, carried out since July, 1943. Before that, however, the president used his war powers which still are in effect.

The Senate is committed to take up labor legislation today and those advocating that Congress take a hand prepped around for a leader.

Proposals Are Plentiful
Virtually everyone had a proposal to correct the difficulties growing out of such tie-ups as the coal strike, but they sought a high command to map their strategy and co-ordinate their program. The leadership question may be settled this morning before the Senate gets down to actual work.

Bad Weather May Delay War in Iran

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN
TEHRAN, May 12 (AP)—Reliable Iranian government officials expressed belief today that unfavorable flying weather may have postponed or averted civil war in Iran, as the Tabriz radio announced that the people of Azerbaijan province were "ready to fight."

Jafar Pishavari, premier of the self-styled autonomous Azerbaijan government, went to the Tehran airport yesterday to return to Tabriz. His departure was halted by an adverse weather report.

A translator in the office of Premier Ahmed Qavam, of the central Iranian government, said Pishavari later called on Qavam and agreed to reopen conversations on the central government's proposal for Azerbaijan's return to Tehran's jurisdiction. The northwestern province adjacent to the Soviet Union last November proclaimed its autonomy.

Pishavari was said to have expressed willingness to drop Azerbaijan counterproposals, which observers here have blamed for preventing an agreement.

Earlier, a foreign ministry protocol official said the negotiation had ended Friday night in a stalemate despite insistence by Propaganda Minister Prince Mozaffar that "negotiations still are going on smoothly and the Azerbaijan delegates probably will remain here another week."

Pier Steps Give Way; 37 Are Hurt

GALVESTON, Tex., May 12 (AP)—At least thirty-seven persons were injured today when the entrance steps to a pier collapsed hurling them down a drop of seventeen feet to a rocky beach.

There were no fatalities. The accident occurred during a holiday opening of Galveston's beach season. More than forty persons were on the steps when they collapsed.

Ambulances, police cars and private automobiles rushed the injured to two local hospitals.

The steps leading from the seawall boulevard to the pier were crowded with holiday fans eager to catch a glimpse of Johnny Weissmuller, swimming star, who was making his way through the throng to ascend the platform.

Suddenly the steps gave way and the surging mass tumbled to the beach amid falling debris of lumber and rocks.

More than twenty-five patients were treated at John Sealy hospital but only four were detained for hospitalization. At St. Mary's infirmary one patient, a holiday bather, was retained for observation. Most of the injured were from Galveston and Houston.

Some of the crowd managed to catch themselves and break a possible fall to the beach. All ambulances and doctors in Galveston were called on to give aid.

Negotiations for Granting Complete Independence to India Break Down

By PRESTON GROVER
SIMLA, India, May 12 (AP)—Collapse of the negotiations between the British cabinet mission and Indian leaders for granting complete independence to India was formally announced tonight.

Increased bitterness within the country was forecast as an almost immediate result, both between Muslims and Hindus and between the Indians and the British.

The announcement was made after a final conference of more than an hour. A communiqué issued by Lord Pethick-Lawrence, head of the cabinet delegation, said that the negotiators would issue a statement in a few days "expressing their views as to the next steps to be taken."

The sudden end to the negotiations was a shaking blow to the Indians, many of whom had expected a quick transition from a country under British control to one where the Indians would hold full sway.

Representatives of the All-India Congress and the Muslim League had met here for eight days with the three-man British cabinet delegation and hopes for a settlement had fluctuated with almost every move of the various delegations.

Apparently the negotiators had found no way of resolving the demands of the Moslem League for an independent Moslem state (Pakistan). The congress bitterly opposed the league's demands,

Foreign Ministers To Meet Again Today

PARIS, May 12 (AP)—The four-power foreign ministers, after a Sunday holiday in observance of the first anniversary of their countries' common victory in Europe, prepared tonight to plunge again into the problems of peace involving Italy and Germany.

Still deadlocked on the major items of the Italian treaty reparations, colonies and the disputed port of Trieste—but with compromise solutions within reach on all except the Trieste issue, the ministers will meet again tomorrow morning for another try at bridging the gaps between the western powers and Russia.

DeGaulle Says He Won't Be Candidate

MOUCHAMPS, France, May 12 (AP)—Gen. Charles DeGaulle said today he would not be a candidate in the June balloting for a new Constituent Assembly, and brushed aside all other questions concerning his role in French politics.

In his first public statement since his retirement last January as president of the provisional government, DeGaulle told reporters he "cannot predict the future." He said he would make no further public pronouncements prior to the election.

Mystery of Who Cut AFL President William Green Off Air Is Unsolved

By MAX HALL
ASHVILLE, N. C., May 12 (AP)—The mystery of who slashed the wires and cut AFL President William Green off the air was still unsolved today.

Ashville police, led by Chief C. V. Dermid, investigated far into the night and were at it again today, but they confessed themselves puzzled.

Green himself, just before going to the Asheville First Baptist church to preach a sermon, told a reporter "I can't for the life of me imagine who in the world could have possibly done such a reprehensible act."

Meantime, George C. Goode, AFL southern representative, announced to the AFL southern labor conference today that a recording was made of Green's speech last night—the speech that wasn't heard over an ABC hookup because someone cut the wires in the basement of the city auditorium a few seconds before he began speaking.

Goode declared that through this recording, Green's speech would be rebroadcast "over practically every radio station in this country within forty-eight hours."

Goode said the deed was done by "some despicable enemy of the American Federation of Labor and of free speech in America."

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Sen. Wherry (R-Neb.) today reported "shocking" evidence that hearings in a signed statement to the committee that the Pearl Harbor military information are inadequate.

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee, which heard the evidence behind closed doors during the last month, hopes to complete this week a bill to tighten up the thirty-year-old espionage law to bring it in tune with the age of radar and the atomic bomb.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss.) told a reporter the aim is to get the measure in shape by Friday.

Wherry explained that in this day of mechanized warfare, industrial "know how" or technical engineering information may have just as great military value as did a "secret weapon" of two decades ago. Yet there is nothing in the present espionage (spy control) law which prevents export of industrial "know how," he said.

Eastland or other members have disclosed that during the secret hearings the subcommittee has received testimony that:

1. Russia has sought contracts with American companies manufacturing electric devices. The Soviets have asked as a part of the contract that Russian engineers be trained in the contractor's factory.

2. The Commerce department sells freely many technical documents, including some seized from Germany, dealing with articles the army and navy have declared "non-secret." Russia and France do not reciprocate.

Eastland said there are indications that secret devices can be put together from parts which have been classified as non-secret.

Foreign Ministers To Meet Again Today

PARIS, May 12 (AP)—The four-power foreign ministers after a Sunday holiday in observance of the first anniversary of their countries' common victory in Europe, prepared tonight to plunge again into the problems of peace involving Italy and Germany.

Still deadlocked on the major items of the Italian treaty negotiations, the ministers met today morning for another try at bridging the gaps between the western powers and Russia.

Marshall Holds Absolute Veto Over China Loan

Truman Grants Power to Envoy To Back Up U. S. Policy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall is holding an absolute veto over a $500,000,000 American loan to China, it was learned today.

It is one of the strongest grants of power ever made by a president to an American envoy to back up United States policies in a foreign country.

The Chinese loan is cited by diplomatic authorities as a striking example to the extent to which President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes have carried their new policy of bargaining for American aims with American dollars.

Polish Credits Are Suspended

In another application, the State department has suspended credits to Poland—involving $90,000,000 in cash and surplus war property—until it can determine whether the Polish government intends to grant promised political freedoms.

Some decision on the Polish situation may be forthcoming this week. Under investigation chiefly are charges that the Communist-dominated Polish government has a censorship on outgoing political news, which Polish diplomats here deny, and that it withheld from the Polish people word of the political freedom pledges it made to get the American money.

On still another financial front, Treasury Secretary Vinson, French Negotiator Leon Blum and export bank officials may make the financial decisions this week necessary to release about $350,000,000 to France and make available war goods and other credits to give the French a total assist of substantially more than $1,200,000,000.

French Election Influence

While officials are wary on the subject, every indication is that the timing of the loan announcement will be made with an eye to maximum effect on the French elections in June. Privately, American officials make no denial that they would like to strengthen foreign Minister Georges Bidault's Popular Republican Movement and Leon Blum's Socialist party against the Communists.

In the case of China, the loan is being used directly for political effect. When Marshall was sent to China last December Mr. Truman announced that the United States would regard financial aid for China favorably to the extent that the Chinese put their house in order.

Marshall is said to regard his problem as being to bring the central government and Chinese Communists together in the interest of strengthening China. The loan, which was about ready for export-import bank action, was held up and Marshall was assured of his full control over that as over all other aspects of American relations with China under the president.

Westinghouse Workers Ratify New Contract

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Ratification of a new contract between the Westinghouse Electric Corporation and the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO) was announced by the union tonight, officially ending the 119-day strike of the company's 75,000 employees.

Edward Matthews, the union's international representative in charge of Westinghouse negotiations, said fifty-three locals in fourteen states approved the contract, which was agreed upon May 9 in Pittsburgh.

Matthews said gains for the workers included an eighteen-cent-an-hour wage increase and union security, and asserted that the union would launch a nationwide campaign at once to organize non-union electrical industry workers.

Grocers' Conference Will Meet May 26-29

CHICAGO, May 12 (AP)—The thirty-eighth annual meeting of the grocers' conference will be held in Oklahoma City May 26-29, the conference headquarters announced today.

A headquarters spokesman said all forty-eight state grocers were expected to attend the four-day meeting.

On May 27, speakers will include Gov. Edward Martin, Pennsylvania, and Herbert R. O'Connor, Maryland. Speakers at the annual state dinner that night will be Gov. Martin as well as Govs. Earl Warren, California, and Clarence W. Meadows, West Virginia.

DeGaulle Says He Won't Be Candidate

MOUCHAMPE, France, May 12 (AP)—Gen. Charles DeGaulle said today he would not be a candidate in the June balloting for a new Constituent Assembly, and brushed aside all other questions concerning his role in French politics.

In his first public statement since his retirement last January as president of the provisional government, DeGaulle told reporters he "cannot predict the future." He said he would make no further public pronouncements prior to the election.

PIN IN CHILD'S LUNG BALKS REMOVAL

JIMMY HUGHES, 2, flown to Phoenix, Ariz., from Blythe, Calif., for removal of a straight pin in his lung, sips water with the assistance of Student Nurse Mary Reed, of Good Samaritan hospital. A physician attempted to remove the pin with a bronchoscope but was unable to do so without stretching the windpipe. He will try again in several days. The child is in no immediate danger.

Bowles Will Urge Truman To Restore Food Rationing Unless Prospects Improve

Hoover Returns from World Survey; Anderson Renews Warning

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Stabilization Director Chester Bowles plans to recommend that President Truman restore food rationing in August unless prospects for meeting famine relief commitments improve quickly.

He believes, said a high official who asked to remain anonymous, that it may become necessary to ration meat, butter and cheese, and possibly bread—the latter for the first time in this country's history.

Bowles' views on rationing became known today as former President Herbert Hoover returned from his round-the-world survey of food requirements and headed promptly for a conference with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who met him at the airport. Hoover declined to comment on the conditions he found or on his recommendations pending a conference with President Truman tomorrow.

Another arrival was Herbert Morrison, president of the British council. He issued a statement at the airport, but declined to comment on behalf of the British government and people to discuss with the president how the cause for which they and we fought victoriously in this war can be saved from being dragged down into defeat by world famine.

In London, the political correspondent for the World, quoting the "highest authority," reported that Morrison will ask the president to ration meats and fats in the United States.

Anderson meanwhile renewed his warning that depletion of the nation's grain reserves requires a reduction in production of livestock products if famine abroad is to be prevented next winter.

Describing the food outlook in a CBS broadcast, Anderson reported "every indication that the world food shortage will continue until the 1947 harvest."

"We must make a choice between feeding starving people and maintaining our livestock numbers at record levels. Our choice, obviously, must be in favor of people," he said.

Anderson declared that Americans must "face the fact that several times as many people can be fed (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5.)

Mystery of Who Cut AFL President William Green Off Air Is Unsolved

By MAX HALL
ASHVILLE, N. C., May 12 (AP)—The mystery of who slashed the wires and cut AFL President William Green off the air was still unsolved today.

Ashville police, led by Chief C. J. V. Dermid, investigated far into the night and were at it again today, but they confessed themselves puzzled.

Green himself, just before going to the Asheville First Baptist church to preach a sermon, told a reporter "I can't for the life of me imagine who in the world could have possibly done such a reprehensible act."

Meantime, George Googe, AFL southern representative, announced today that a recording was made of Green's speech last night—the speech that wasn't heard over an ABC hookup because someone cut the wires in the basement of the city auditorium a few seconds before he began speaking.

Googe declared that through this recording, Green's speech would be rebroadcast "over practically every radio station in this country within forty-eight hours."

Googe said the deed was done by "some despicable enemy of the American Federation of Labor and of free speech in America."

John L. Lewis and Operators Hold Another Fruitless Session

BACK HOLIDAY PAY DEADLOCK CONTINUES

Government Officials Proceed with Plans for Coal Controls

WASHINGTON, May 13 (Monday)—(AP)—A government-imposed embargo on most freight was lifted today as resumption of soft coal mining under a strike truce promised railroads fresh fuel supplies.

Most of the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners, idle forty-two days while John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, negotiated with operators on terms of a new contract, planned to return to the pits today. In Pennsylvania, however, a big block of the miners voted to remain on strike.

The freight embargo, imposed last week as coal reserves dwindled, prohibited all freight shipments except fuel, food and a few other essential commodities. It was lifted at 12:01 a. m. today.

Also lifted at the same time was a post office restriction limiting the weight of parcel post packages. Lewis and the operators, urged by President Truman to reach agreement not later than Wednesday, are to resume negotiations at 10 a. m. There was scant hope they would meet the president's deadline. The two sides had another fruitless session Sunday.

Coal Controls Are Planned

Government officials proceeded with plans for coal controls. The coal expected during the truce, originally forecast at 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 tons, is ticketed for priority needs only, and dimouts and other conservation steps remained in force.

Lewis and the operators conferred for two hours in keeping with Secretary of Labor Schweitzer's request. Edward F. McGrady, special government conciliator, described the result as "talk." The deadlocked issue still is the $3,000,000,000 back holiday pay Lewis asks. While "talk" is necessary to negotiate a new contract, both sides said privately there seems little chance that a settlement could be reached by Wednesday, the day fixed by Mr. Truman for a report.

On that day the draft act—with the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes act as a shirt-tail—will expire unless the House acts swiftly to concur in the Senate extension. The Smith-Connally act has been the basis of presidential seizure carried out since July 1943. Before that, however, the president used his war powers which still are in effect.

The Senate is committed to take up labor legislation today and those advocating that Congress take a hand peered around for a leader.

Proposals Are Plentiful

Virtually everyone had a proposal to correct the difficulties growing out of such tie-ups as the coal strike, but they sought a high command to map their strategy and co-ordinate their program. The leadership question may be settled this morning, before the Senate gets down to actual work.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.), one of the foremost advocates of doing (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7.)

Bad Weather May Delay War in Iran

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN
TEHRAN, May 12 (AP)—Reliable Iranian government officials expressed belief today that unfavorable flying weather may have postponed or averted civil war in Iran, as the Tabbis radio announced that the people of Azerbaijan province were "ready to fight."

Jafar Pishevari, premier of the self-styled autonomous Azerbaijan government, went to the Tehran airport yesterday to return to Tabriz. His departure was halted by an adverse weather report.

A translator in the office of Premier Ahmed Qavam, of the central Iranian government, said Pishevari later called on Qavam and agreed to reopen conversations on the central government's proposal for Azerbaijan's return to Tehran's jurisdiction. The northwestern province adjacent to the Soviet Union last November proclaimed its autonomy.

Pishevari was said to have expressed willingness to drop Azerbaijan counterproposals, which observers here have blamed for preventing an agreement.

Earlier, a foreign minister protocol official said the negotiation had ended Friday night in a stalemate despite insistence by Propaganda Minister Prince Mozaffar Ploos that "negotiations still are going on smoothly and the Azerbaijan delegates probably will remain here another week."

Mrs. Fadely, 83, Dies in Woodstock

Mrs. Victoria V. Fadely, 83, RFD 1, Edinburg, Va., widow of Charles E. Fadely, Sr., former local brick contractor, died yesterday morning at a hospital in Woodstock, Va., where she had been a patient for some days.

A native of Shenandoah county, Va., Mrs. Fadely came to Cumberland after her marriage. She and her husband made their home here until ten or twelve years ago, when Mrs. Fadely retired from active business. They moved to Edinburg, where her husband died eight years ago. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fadely were affiliated with St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed church while residing here.

SOLDIER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN JAIL, POLICE REPORT

City police reported last night that a soldier giving the name of Robert Lewis, address unknown, attempted suicide by hanging in a cell in the city jail early yesterday morning.

Lewis, police said, was arrested in front of the Blue Ridge bus station by Officers James Brown and John Powers on a charge of drunkenness about 11:20 p. m. Saturday and was taken to jail.

At 12:15 a. m. yesterday, Officers Powers and J. Carl Stouffer visited the cell block and found Lewis hanging by his necktie from the iron door frame, officers reported.

Powers and Stouffer removed the necktie, police said, adding that if Lewis had been found a few minutes later he might have been dead. However, he did not require medical attention.

Lewis was released on bond yesterday morning for a hearing.

Negro, Two White Men Will Be Tried Today After Razor Incident

A negro and two white men involved in a razor-wielding incident Saturday night at the intersection of Baltimore and Mechanic streets were arrested by Officer E. M. Powell and committed to jail pending a trial this morning in police court.

The negro, who allegedly threatened to "carve up" the white men following a minor dispute gave his name as Eugene Meyers, Prospect Heights. The latter are H. A. Lloyd, 1211 Virginia avenue, and Thomas Lewis, 23 Harrison street.

Louis Donius, this city, who was arrested Saturday night on a warrant charging him with assaulting an eighty-year-old boy, George Landaker, 1008 Rollins Mill road, was given a hearing today in trial magistrates court. ## Senale Committee

They think the chairman is over-optimistic. They figure it will take two weeks at least to whip the bill into final shape.

Chairman Thomas (D-Okla.) of the Senate Agriculture committee, announced a special hearing by his group Wednesday and Thursday on a series of curtailed milk production and protests of dairy farmers against subsidy increases in lieu of price adjustments. The testimony undoubtedly will figure large in the OPA debate on the floor.

"Fear of subsidies appears to be a serious factor in the picture of diminishing dairy products," Thomas' statement said.

them, stopping now and then to talk to the men in the ranks.

Just before he walked down the ladder into the Egyptian royal launch riding the waves beside the cruiser, he turned to the men and said quietly:

"Parewille to you. You are the men I have loved all my life." Thus Vittorio joined the growing ranks of homeless royalty, including Peter, of Yugoslavia; Carol, of Romania; George, of Greece; and King Abdulla, of Jordan, the names also living in exile on Egyptian soil.

An Egyptian police officer who watched Vittorio pass commented: "Look, now he is just a civilian."

City's Picketing Ordinance May Be Tested in Court

William R. McGinnis, international representative, said last night that the Retail Clerks' Protective Association intends to place two pickets on duty in front of Peckin's shoe store today and that court action will be instituted if police make an arrest of one of them.

The union on Friday started with two pickets at the front of the store but removed one at the request of police.

McGinnis and C. E. Stutzman, president of Allegheny Trades Council, charged "illegal police interference," and declared the city's picketing ordinance is illegal. Even so, they claim that under the provision they should be allowed two pickets on Baltimore street as the store has two main entrances.

Police evidently take the view there is only one entrance. The lone opening off Baltimore street branches to both the left and the right of the window display vestibule to provide two entrances to the store proper.

McGinnis said a resolution calling for abolition of the local picketing ordinance may be presented when the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor convenes here today.

McGinnis said Peckin's attorney, William C. Walsh, has been contacting the union but that he (McGinnis) doubts if a settlement is reached before the end of the week.

The dispute centers about the discharge of four employees.

Ten Calls for Donations Of Blood Received Recently, Conlon Says

Urging more veterans and civilians to register in the blood donors' club of the American Legion, Thomas F. Conlon, in charge of the project, said that in the past two weeks about ten calls have been received for blood donations, with three in one day.

He said that type 4-O is most frequently needed for transfusions, and called on veterans with that blood type to register at the Maryland Veterans Commission office on the second floor of the Liberty Trust building, or to call 3971.

Civilians who know their particular blood type are also asked to register. Membership in the blood donors' club now numbers about 500 persons, Conlon said.

Auditors, Comptrollers Name Nominating Group

A nominating committee to report at the June meeting of the Cumberland conference of the National Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers was named at a recent meeting of the Allegheny Shriners Country Club, according to Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, who is president of the local conference.

Harry C. Landis, chairman of the committee, will be assisted by Herbert Lohr, Froeburg, and Thomas Keen, Washington, D. C. The election will be held at the June meeting following the committee's report on the nominees selected. The officers will be installed at the September meeting to serve for one year.

William B. Yates, vice president, and Keen reported on the regional conferences held in Atlantic City, N. J., at the end of April, describing suggestions made by conference speakers on bank operation and equipment. A roundtable discussion on the report was held by the twenty members attending the meeting.

They will visit Accident, Friendsville and other places in the county and will be guests at a public reception tonight at the William James hotel, Oakland.

Four Men Post Bonds In Mine Assault Case

Four men arrested on charges of assault with intent to kill John C. Keister, president and general manager of the Burnwell Coal Company near New Germany, Garrett county, furnished bond of $1,000 each when they were released after a hearing in Oakland Saturday before Magistrate H. A. Lorditch.

The men were held for action of the September grand jury of Garrett County Circuit Court. No testimony was taken when they were arraigned.

The accused men gave their names as Woodrow Wilson, Kitzmiller; "Ed" Helmick, near Shallmar; "Hip" Whitefield, who lives between Oakland and Kitzmiller; and Robert Smith, Blaine, W. Va.

They are accused of attacking Keister with a band of 150 striking miners visited the mine last Wednesday.

Class 2 Slaughterers Must Secure Licenses

The state OPA office yesterday called attention to the May 15 deadline for applications for certain Class 2 slaughterers for license and assignment of quota bases.

Any person who began operating or constructing a Class 2 slaughterhouse establishment between September 1, 1945, and April 25, 1946, in which he made a substantial financial investment, is required to file for issuance of a license and assignment of quota bases on or before May 15, the OPA said.

Persons who fail to file by the deadline, it was stated, are prohibited from further slaughtering operations until they receive their license.

Kickers' Tournament Ends in Four Way Tie

The kickers' handicap golf tournament at the Cumberland Country Club yesterday ended in a four-way deadlock when Cy Bowers, Benjamin Wright, Dick Zembow and Edward R. Allan posted net score of 72.

C. S. "Bill" Catherman, Jr., and Morgan C. Harris were tied with low scores of 74. Thirty-one participated.

Judge Capper Will Open Washington County Circuit Court Term

Walter C. Capper, associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, left yesterday for Hagerstown, where he will preside at Washington County Circuit Court session today.

Judge Capper said yesterday he will deliver the charge to the Washington county grand jury this morning, in the absence of Judge Joseph D. Misch, whose mother died last week. Judge Capper said court would recess for the funeral, during the afternoon.

Tentative Budget Will Be Ready Soon, Gibson Says

Although city income is expected to be increased considerably this year because of the end of a tax exemption for only about $25,000, The City, which will not be as much money available for increasing general services as was at first anticipated, according to Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

Under the city code, the city levy and appropriations must be approved by May 25. Gibson said he hopes to have a proposed budget in shape to submit to the mayor and city council for study by the middle of next week.

The city auditor said income of the Kelly will be around $2,500,000. Green's speech before 2,000 AFL southern leaders was the high light of the opening day of the two-day meeting here. He struck the keynote of the AFL's southern organization.

At 6:45 p. m. EST, NBC radio listeners heard an announcer's voice saying, "From Asheville, North Carolina, the National Broadcasting Company brings you a speech by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor."

That was where the broadcast started.

One curious feature of the case is that eleven wires were strung loosely along the basement wall, and the only three severed were all installed for the radio broadcast. One was the main line carrying the program.

The wires, which were cut, were not an emergency line, but the third was a communicative telephone line for use by radio engineers.

Because those three wires were the only ones cut—evidently with a knife—detectives said they felt sure that whoever did it was familiar with the wire setup.

directly with grain as can be fed if the grain is converted into livestock products" even though it means less meat and poultry.

Government officials have steered the grain into livestock products publicly for rationing, in line with Mr. Truman's position that it could not be put into effect in time to do any good. But rationing has been urged by many outside the administration, including Herbert H. Lehman, former UNRRA director-general.

The CIO Food, Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers Union made public an open letter to the president today asserting that "we must immediately reinstate rationing of essential foods, including cereals, fats and oils."

The union said that the "utter failure of the voluntary food control program" must be faced.

OPA Administrator Paul Porter, whose agency would administer rationing if it is restored, has not expressed his views publicly but friends said he will agree to rationing if there is no other solution.

Government officials, who would be concerned with the restoration of rationing reportedly have taken the position that unless the program were started by August, probably would stay on the shelf until after the November elections.

Seven Divorce Decrees Granted In Circuit Court

Seven divorces have been granted in decrees signed in circuit court.

William H. Fletcher, 1404 Virginia avenue, was granted an absolute divorce from Mrs. Ruth B. Fletcher in a decree signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster. Mrs. Fletcher was given the custody of a minor son. Fletcher was ordered to pay the costs. Paul M. Fletcher was Fletcher's attorney.

Driver Is Acquitted Of Manslaughter Charge

Harold McKenzie, Guntersville, driver of the car which struck and fatally injured Jeremiah Burkholder, 81, Accident, has been acquitted of a charge of manslaughter by automobile, at a hearing before Magistrate H. A. Lorditch in Oakland yesterday.

William McElfish, 1008 Ridgeley Mill alley will be given a hearing today in trial magistrates court. Donius recently received a suspended sentence in circuit court on a vagrancy charge.

Two Men Reenlist For ETO Service

Two men, one a navy veteran, have enlisted at the local army recruiting station, according to Capt. N.S.P. Stitt, officer in charge of the local recruiting station.

He is James Edward Elsenbrot, 21, Salisbury, Pa., who enlisted in the air corps for service in the ETO.

Charles M. Todd, 23, this city, who enlisted for three years in the military police and requested service in the ETO, was discharged after thirty-four months in the same branch. He also requested service in the ETO.

they think the chairman is over-optimistic. They figure it will take two weeks at least to whip the bill into final shape.

The hearings developed strong indications that there will be bipartisan support for restoring some of the controls the House voted to remove. Sen. Tobey (R-N.H.) is a strong supporter of price control and Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) told reporters it would be his "guess" that the committee will not go as far as the House in shearing OPA powers.

Chairman Thomas (D-Okla.) of the Senate Agriculture committee, announced a special hearing by his group Wednesday and Thursday on the "threat of curtailed milk production and protests of dairy farmers against subsidy increases in lieu of price adjustments."

The money undoubtedly will figure large in the OPA debate on the floor.

"Fear of subsidies appears to be a serious factor in the picture of diminishing dairy products," Thomas's statement said.

Just before he walked down the ladder into the Egyptian royal launch riding the waves beside the cruiser, he turned to the men and said quietly:

"Farewell to you. You are the men I have loved all my life."

Thus Vittorio joined the growing ranks of homeless royalty, including Peter, of Yugoslavia; Carol, of Romania; George, of Greece, and Zog, of Albania—the last named also living in exile on Egyptian soil.

An Egyptian police officer, who watched Vittorio pass commented, "Look, now he is just a civilian."

SOLDIER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN JAIL, POLICE REPORT

City police reported last night that a soldier giving the name of Robert Lewis, address unknown, attempted suicide by hanging in a cell in the city jail early yesterday morning.

Lewis, police said, was arrested in front of the Blue Ridge bus station by Officers James Brown and John Powers on a charge of drunkenness about 11:30 p. m. Saturday and was taken to jail.

At 12:15 a. m. yesterday, Officers Powers and J. Carl Stouffer visited the cell block and found Lewis hanging by his necktie from the iron door frame, officers reported.

Powers and Stouffer removed the necktie, police said, adding that if Lewis had been found a few minutes later he might have been dead. However, he did not require medical attention.

Lewis was released on bond yesterday morning for a hearing.

Negro, Two White Men Will Be Tried Today After Razor Incident

A negro and two white men involved in a razor-whistle incident Saturday night at the intersection of Baltimore and Mechanic streets were arrested by Officer E. M. Powell and committed to jail pending a trial this morning in police court.

The negro, who allegedly threatened to "cut up" the white men following a minor dispute gave his name as Eugene Meyers, Prospect square. The latter are H. A. Lloyd, 1211 Virginia avenue, and Thomas Lewis, 223 Harrison street.

Local Attorney Speaks on "Relation of Law and the Home"

Earl Manges, local attorney, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Twiggtown Homemakers Club Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Frost, Hinkle road. The meeting opened with the recitation of "The Lord's Prayer," led by Mrs. P. W. Bottenfield, followed by the group singing of "Faith of Our Fathers."

Manges spoke informally on the "Relation of Law and the Home." By answering questions and giving concrete examples of everyday legal affairs including mistakes made in drawing up wills and making deeds, he brought home to his listeners the importance of having a family lawyer as well as a family doctor. Just as a good family doctor works to keep patients out of the hospital, a good family lawyer works to keep his clients out of court, Manges said.

During the business session, Mrs. L. H. Chambers reported that at the meeting of the executive board held the previous evening, the president of the group, Mrs. Austin Twigg, was named delegate to the Rural Women's Short Course, to be held at College Park the week of June 17. Mrs. J. Nelson Willison, vice president, was named alternate. A general discussion of the course followed and Miss Maude Bean, county home demonstration agent, urged the group to send as many representatives as possible to help raise the quota of 150 women from Allegheny county.

Mrs. George Bottenfield and Mrs. Frost modeled dresses they had made and constructive criticism of the work was given by Miss Bean. National Home Demonstration Week and Mothers' day were observed by reading two poems, "The Women," by Francis Frost, and "Everlasting," by Luella Boynton.

A social hour concluded the meeting and refreshments were served by the hostess. The June meeting will be replaced by the County Musical Vespers and recreational meeting at Constitution Park, June 6. All Homemakers members and their families are urged to attend the affair. The next regular meeting of the Twiggtown Homemakers will be held July 13, at the home of Mrs. Wade Rice, Brice Hollow road.

Miners Expected

Contribution of UMW "This mine is a contribution of United Mine Workers of America to our nation's economy which is being imperiled by the stupidity and selfish greed of the coal operators and associated financial interests and by demagogues who have tried to lash the public mind to a state of hysteria, rather than grant justice and fair treatment to the men who mine the nation's coal. The coal to be mined during this two-week period can be utilized for consumption by essential facilities and the nation's health and security thus safeguarded while efforts to negotiate a contract continue. Let every member be assured that the members of the UMW are determined to accept no contract that will give to the mine workers the essential protection which is imperatively required. Let every member co-operate with this policy."

With the lifting of the freight embargo at midnight last night as a result of the grace in the miners' strike, local industries reported that the embargo caused no interruption of production here, although it was said that furloughs would have been necessary if the order had remained in effect this week and railroads were prevented from shipping in raw materials or hauling away finished products.

Store owners also reported that the embargo was not in effect long enough to cause any damage to business. Food and other perishable merchandise, medicines and emergency articles could be accepted for shipment.

Railroad officials commented yesterday that "trucks are reaping a harvest, because the Celanese Corporation and Kelly-Springfield Tire Company have been forced to use more trucks than ever since the rail embargo was decreed."

The only large industry in this area not affected by the embargo was the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, which was exempted in the regulations. Firms producing paper were among the few industries allowed to maintain normal rail shipments.

Celanese Gets Approval To Construct Addition To New Jersey Plant

Celanese Corporation of America has announced application to build an addition to its plastics plant at Belvidere, N. J., has been approved by the Civilian Products Administration. W. Stuart Landes, vice president in charge of plastics division of the company, said that the plans were four months behind schedule due to delay in acquiring title to the property from the construction Finance Corporation.

It is planned to produce both cellulose acetate and cellulose propionate molding material in the new unit. Before ground can be broken around July 1, the site must be cleared of the old smokestack, boiler buildings and magazines operated during the war by the New Jersey Powder Company. Demolition is now under way.

Landes said that initial production at one of the present buildings at the Belvidere plant should begin in November but that full scale operations would not be reached until mid-1947, by which time the company's present capacity for molding powder would be more than doubled.

Miners Expected

Contribution of UMW

"This action is a contribution of United Mine Workers of America to our nation's economy which is being imperiled by the stupidity and selfish greed of the coal operators and associated financial interests and by demagogues who have tried to lash the public mind to a state of hysteria, rather than grant justice and fair treatment to the men who mine the nation's coal. The coal to be mined during this two-week period can be utilized for consumption by essential facilities and the nation's health and security thus safeguarded while efforts to negotiate a contract continue. Let every member be assured that the members of the national Policy committee are determined to accept no contract that will give to the mine workers the essential protection which is imperatively required. Let every member co-operate with this policy."

With the lifting of the freight embargo at midnight last night as a result of the truce in the miners' strike, local industries reported that the embargo caused no interruption of production here, although it was said that some of the nation's steel and other industries were prevented from shipping in raw materials or hauling away finished products.

Store owners also reported that the embargo was not in effect long enough to cause any damage to business. Food and other perishable merchandise, medicines and emergency articles could be accepted for shipment.

Railroad officials commented yesterday that strikers are reaping a harvest because the Celanese Corporation and Kelly-Springfield Tire Company have been forced to use more trucks than ever since the rail embargo was decreed.

Luke Not Affected

The large industry in this area not affected by the embargo was the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, which was excepted in the regulations. Firms producing paper were among the few industries allowed to maintain normal rail shipments.

Celanese Gels Approval To Construct Addition To New Jersey Plant

Celanese Corporation of America has announced that its application to build an addition to its plastics plant at Belvidere, N. J., has been approved by the Civilian Production Administration. Miss Mary England, 122 Thomas street, is junior vice-president in charge of plastics division of the company, said that the plans were four months behind schedule due to delay in acquiring title to the property from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It is planned to produce both cellulose acetate and cellulose propionate molding material in the new unit. Before ground can be broken around July 1, the site must be cleared of the old smokeless powder buildings and magazines operated during the war by the New Jersey Powder Company. Demolition is now under way.

Landes said that initial production at one of the present buildings at the Belvidere plant should begin in November but that full scale operations would not be reached until mid-1947 by which time the company's present capacity for molding powder would be more than doubled.

Married at Home

The Growing Car Parking Problem

BALTIMORE is trying to figure out what to do about its increasing car parking problem and has conducted a survey of the situation in the last six weeks. The purpose of the survey was to determine that more parking space was needed, but to learn where parking was the heaviest and what possibilities exist in all areas where parking facilities are needed.

Among other things it has been learned from interviews with some 30,000 city motorists is that the most packed section of the city is the shopping district in the northwest quarter, which must cope with thirteen per cent more cars than it is theoretically able to accommodate.

The investigation suggests that cities must do something in the near future to meet this growing problem and that it is wise to do some planning about it for it will be greatly intensified when the new cars come on the market.

A recent report by the International City Managers' Association disclosed that 280 American cities are now operating municipal off-street parking lots, an increase of thirty-five per cent over the number in use in 1942. It noted a trend toward the establishment of off-street parking lots, parking garages and underground parking areas.

Five hundred and seventy lots with an aggregate capacity of 75,000 vehicles are operated by the 280 cities. Thirty per cent of all cities surveyed over 10,000 population now have municipally-owned lots.

Detroit voters have approved a proposal for an underground parking garage to be financed by revenue bonds, and Dallas has completed a study on financing a 6,000-car lot connected by subway with the business district. The Chicago city council adopted a resolution requesting the legislature to permit the city to build and operate parking lots. Initial action has been taken in numerous other cities.

Thirty-eight per cent of cities surveyed in the 10,000 to 25,000 population class now own and operate municipal parking facilities. Competition with nearby big cities for retail business is one important reason for the high ratio in smaller cities, the association adds.

Cumberland city officials might well look into the possibilities here. The parking situation is pretty bad in the business section and it will present big difficulties in the not distant future. It would be to the interest of local business for them to give some attention to it also.

The Possibility Of Deflation

INFLATION still is making headway—especially in the urban real estate category—but there is a distinct possibility that before long deflation will be more of a headache than inflation is today.

Canada, which is farther along with reconstruction than the United States, reports a thought-provoking development. Merchandise and appliances which were not available during the war are appearing in distribution channels, but the expected demand for them has not materialized.

The idea of saving money until prices go down is taking hold and something resembling a buyers' strike is reported to be under way. Some—probably most—observers see for the United States a future of rather sharply rising prices. Cost of living may go up ten to twenty per cent during the next twelve months, followed by another round of wage increases and still higher prices the remainder of 1947.

Then would come a sharp reaction because people would refuse to follow prices upward. They would quit buying all but the essentials. So runs this theory.

But it is not anticipated by most economists that a buyers' strike would be of long duration. Probably it would be rather short, like the one of 1927 and part of 1922 that followed World War I. Deflation would result in lower prices, and then the country would be on its way again.

Of considerable interest is whether the administration can keep a boom going through 1948. If the collapse should come in that campaign year, the possibility of the incumbents' retaining power would be greatly minimized.

States Get Busy With Advertising

STATES are increasing their advertising budgets in order to attract new industry, expand agricultural markets and promote tourist travel, according to the Council of State Governments.

Use of state funds in 1946 for advertising and publicity in newspapers, magazines, motion pictures and radio has been authorized by thirty-nine states. Indication of the scope of the promotion campaign in some states is gained from financial authorizations for advertising and public relations which range up to $300,000 in Utah, some $400,000 in New York and Pennsylvania, and $500,000 in Florida.

State advertising is financed from general funds in most cases though various special provisions have been made. Citizens groups in most of the states without public-financed promotion agencies have made other provisions for such advertising. Alabama, California, Maryland and Texas receive publicity through community agencies and private organizations. Montana and North Dakota are advertised by state-wide semi-official agencies financed by private contributions.

General rush to get into the advertising game thus indicated as well as the competition created points to something that successful people everywhere have long since known—that it pays to advertise.

THAT'S ONE WAY THEY START

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Ego Is Key to John L. Lewis, Who Wants Invitation to White House, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 12—Those who have known John L. Lewis during the years concluded long ago that one of the dominating forces in his make-up was personal ego. You have only to watch John L. in the washroom of a Pullman car, brushing his hair, combing his eyebrows, looking in the mirror from this angle and that, to know that the big miner boss studies every detail of his dress as carefully as an actor.

Or if you are lunching in the Carlton hotel here at 1:15 as a hush settles over the diningroom and every guest turns to watch Lewis stride the entire length of the room to his favorite table, you realize that those entrances are planned with the care of an actor.

Or if you go through the headquarters of the United Mine Workers, formerly the dignified University Club just a stone's throw from the White House, your suspicions are confirmed that John L. Lewis relishes the luxury of oak-paneled offices and ornate leather chairs just as much—perhaps more—than the tycoon of Wall Street.

Pictures in Profusion

Or when you visit the assembly room in the basement of the United Mine Workers' building, a hundred pictures stare at you—all framed cartoons of John L. Lewis.

Unquestionably if John L. Lewis hadn't built up his own ego, he wouldn't be where he is today. Ego has done a lot for John. But sometimes ego has interfered with the things he was working for, certainly it has interfered with the interests of the country.

Today, for instance, labor friends say that one thing irking Lewis is the fact that most of Phil Murray's negotiations with the steel companies were conducted right inside the White House. Murray even sat frequently with the president himself. Lewis, on the other hand, hasn't been given that recognition.

It happens that there is no man in the USA of whom John L. Lewis is more jealous than Phil Murray. Once pals and partners in organizing the CIO, Lewis split, finally went back to the AFL. Meanwhile, Murray helps govern two great unions—the steel and auto workers—which are even more powerful than Lewis' mine workers. Finally, Murray is the friend of the president of the United States.

This is a crushing thing to the Lewis ego, and friends say it is one reason why he is determined to get a higher wage boost than Murray's steel and auto workers.

Alice Longworth

Chief restraint on Lewis' willfulness in the old days was his wife, a quiet, cultured lady who read to him in the evenings and gave him part of the background which has enabled John to hurl Scripture and verse at his opponents and less-educated coal operators.

Mrs. Lewis has been dead some years now, and daughter Kathryn is just as willful as her father. Furthermore, John has now developed a friendship with another famous lady, who if anything has more ego than he—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

Daughter of Teddy Roosevelt and for years a ruler of Washington society, Mrs. Longworth's ego took her into the famous Dolly Gann waiting in the car outside for thirty minutes while she stopped in at a cocktail party. Friends now say that Mrs. Longworth is the only person who has held up the man who has held up the entire nation.

The Balty Swiss

Insiders say that Switzerland, the little nation which posed as the benign and friendly neutral, is now displaying the same tactics as the

Capone gang in hanging on to Nazi loot.

The secret negotiations now going on in Washington to recover Nazi gold from Switzerland have been carefully guarded, but it has leaked out that Switzerland's policy is to keep all the gold which the Germans stole from France, Denmark, Belgium and other occupied countries and sent to Switzerland for safe-keeping.

Like the Capone gang, the Swiss won't return this looted gold to France, Denmark, Belgium and other countries from which it was stolen.

The show-down came to a head the other day over two points: First, the Allied delegations told the Swiss they must give the Allies all the Nazi gold ($130,000,000); second, the Swiss must hand over one-third of the Nazi stocks and bonds deposited there during the war.

Each of these, Dr. Walter Stucki, head of the Swiss Delegation, said: "No!"

"We do not recognize any obligation to return the gold," he said. He added, however, that Switzerland was willing to give $25,000,000 to help rehabilitate Europe.

"That is an insult," remarked French Delegate Paul Charguier, adding that more than $130,000,000 of Allied gold could be proved to have gone to Switzerland.

At that point, Stucki, in a huff, walked out.

That same morning, Randolph Paul, top U. S. negotiator, sent a letter to Dr. Stucki saying that unless the Allies held to the contrary promptly, they would have to report to their governments the collapse of the negotiations. Stucki hastily replied that he had merely walked out in order to get new instructions from Switzerland.

Despite all this, some Treasury officials urge a lenient policy toward the Swiss. It happens that they have $1,500,000,000 of assets now frozen in this country including $500,000,000 in gold, and the French are preparing to claim a lien on these assets. Some Treasury officials, however, are opposed.

Not so, however, sage Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson, who remembers all the Swiss collaboration with the Nazis during the war.

Despite all this, some Treasury officials urge a lenient policy toward the Swiss. It happens that they have $1,500,000,000 of assets now frozen in this country including $500,000,000 in gold, and the French are preparing to claim a lien on these assets. Some Treasury officials, however, are opposed.

Not so, however, sage Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson, who remembers all the Swiss collaboration with the Nazis during the war.

Paul, top U. S. negotiator, sent a letter to Dr. Stucki saying that unless the Allies held to the contrary promptly, they would have to report to their governments the collapse of the negotiations. Stucki hastily replied that he had merely walked out in order to get new instructions from Switzerland.

The Growing Car Parking Problem

BALTIMORE is trying to figure out what to do about its increasing car parking problem and has conducted a survey of the situation the last six weeks. The purpose of the survey was to determine what more parking space was needed, but that having been long obvious, but to learn where parking was the heaviest and what possibilities exist in all areas where parking facilities are needed.

Among other things it has been learned from interviews with some 30,000 city motorists is that the most packed section of the city is the shopping district in the northwest quarter, which must cope with thirteen per cent more cars than it is theoretically able to accommodate.

The investigation suggests that cities must do something in the near future to meet this growing problem and that it is wise to do some planning about it for it will be greatly intensified when the new cars come on the market.

A recent report by the International City Managers' Association disclosed that 280 American cities are now operating municipal off-street parking lots, an increase of thirty-five per cent over the number in use in 1942. It noted a trend toward the establishment of off-street parking lots, parking garages and underground parking areas.

Five hundred and seventy lots with an aggregate capacity of 75,000 vehicles are operated by the 280 cities. Thirty per cent of all cities surveyed over 10,000 population now have municipally-owned lots.

Detroit voters have approved a proposal for an underground parking garage to be financed by revenue bonds, and Dallas has completed a study on financing a 6,000-car lot connected by subway with the business district.

The Chicago city council adopted a resolution requesting the legislature to permit the city to build and operate parking lots. Initial action has been taken in numerous other cities.

Thirty-eight per cent of cities surveyed in the 10,000 to 25,000 population class now own and operate municipal parking facilities. Competition with nearby big cities for retail business is one important reason for the high ratio in smaller cities, the association says.

Cumberland city officials might well look into the possibilities here. The parking situation is pretty bad in the business section and it will present big difficulties in the not distant future. It would be to the interest of local business for them to give some attention to it, also.

The Possibility Of Deflation

INFLATION still is making headway—especially in the urban real estate category—but there is a distinct possibility that before long deflation will be more of a headache than inflation is today.

Canada, which is farther along with reconversion than the United States, reports a thought-provoking development. Merchandise and appliances which were not available during the war are appearing in distribution channels, but the expected demand for them has not materialized.

The idea of saving money until prices go down is taking hold and something resembling a buyers' strike is reported to be under way.

Some—probably most—observers see for the United States a future of rather sharply rising prices. Cost of living may go up ten to twenty per cent during the next twelve months, followed by another round of wage increases and still higher prices the remainder of 1947.

Then would come a sharp reaction because people would refuse to follow prices upward. They would quit buying all but the essentials. So runs this theory.

But it is not anticipated by most economists that such a collapse would be of long duration. Probably it would be rather short, like the one of 1927 and part of 1922 that followed World War I. Deflation would result in lower prices, and then the country would be on its way again.

Of considerable interest is whether the administration can keep a boom going through 1948. If the collapse should come in that campaign year, the possibility of the incumbents' retaining power would be greatly minimized.

States Get Busy With Advertising

STATES are increasing their advertising budgets in order to attract new industry, expand agricultural markets and promote tourist travel, according to the Council of State Governments.

Use of state funds in 1946 for advertising and publicity in newspapers, magazines, motion pictures and radio has been authorized by thirty-nine states. Indication of the scope of the promotion campaign in some states is gained from financial authorizations for advertising and public relations which range up to $300,000 in Utah, some $400,000 in New York and Pennsylvania, and $500,000 in Florida.

State advertising is financed from general funds in most cases though some special provisions have been made. Citizens groups in most of the states without public-financed promotion agencies have made other provisions for such advertising. Alabama, California, Maryland and Texas receive publicity through the federal government and private organizations. Montana and North Dakota are advertised by state-wide semi-official agencies financed by private contributions.

The general rush to get into the advertising game thus indicated as well as the competition created points to something that successful people everywhere have long since known—that it pays to advertise.

THAT'S ONE WAY THEY START

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Ego Is Key to John L. Lewis, Who Wants Invitation to White House, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Those who have known John L. Lewis during the years concluded long ago that one of the dominating forces in his make-up was personal ego. You have only to watch John L. in the washroom of a Pullman car brushing his hair, combing his eyebrows, looking in the mirror from this angle and that, to know that the big miner boss studies every detail of his dress as carefully as an actor.

Or if you are lunching in the Carlton hotel here at 1:15 as a hush settles over the diningroom and every guest turns to watch Lewis stride the entire length of the room to his favorite table, you realize that those entrances are planned with the care of an actor.

Or if you go through the headquarters of the United Mine Workers, formerly the dignified University Club just a stone's throw from the White House, your suspicions are confirmed that John L. Lewis relishes the luxury of oak-paneled offices and ornate leather chairs just as much as he does more than the tycoon of Wall Street.

Pictures in Profusion

Or when you visit the assembly room in the basement of the United Mine Workers building, a hundred pictures stare at you—all framed cartoons of John L. Lewis.

Unquestionably if John L. Lewis hadn't built up his own ego, he wouldn't be where he is today. Ego has done a lot for John. But sometimes ego has interfered with the things he was working for, certainly. As much as with the interests of the country.

Today, for instance, labor friends say that one thing irking Lewis is the fact that most of Phil Murray's negotiations with the steel companies were conducted right in the White House. Murray even sat frequently with the president himself, Lewis on the other hand, hasn't been given that recognition.

It happens that there is no man in the USA of whom John L. Lewis is more jealous than Phil Murray. Once pals and partners in organizing the CIO, Lewis split, finally went back to the AFL. Meanwhile, Murray helps govern two great unions—the steel and auto workers—which are even more powerful than Lewis's mine workers. Finally, Murray is the friend of the president of the United States.

This is a crushing thing to the Lewis ego, and friends say it is one reason why he is determined to get a higher wage boost than Murray's steel and auto workers.

Alice Longworth

Chief restraint on Lewis's willfulness in the old days was his wife, a quiet, cultured lady who read to him in the evenings and gave him part of the background which has enabled John to hurl Scripture and verse at speechless and less-educated opponents.

Mrs. Lewis has been dead some years now, and daughter Kathryn is just as willful as her father. Furthermore, John has now developed a friendship with another famous lady, who if anything, has more ego than he—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

Daughter of Teddy Roosevelt and for years a ruler of Washington society, Mrs. Longworth's ego took her into the famous Dolly Gann social battle as to who should precede the other at dinner. Now Alice and Lewis are good friends, each helps to swell the other's ego. The mere fact that he is a social companion of one of the most famous and witty women in the capital naturally would inflate almost any man's self-opinion. But to John L. Lewis, whose self-opinion already had reached balloon-like proportions, the effect is inflationary in the extreme.

Note—Alice once boasted to friends that she kept John L. Lewis waiting in the car outside for thirty minutes while she stopped in at a cocktail party. Friends now say that Mrs. Longworth is the only person who has held up the man who has held up the entire nation.

The Balmy Swiss

Insiders say that Switzerland, the little nation which posed as the benign and friendly neutral, is now displaying the same tactics as the

Capone gang in hanging on to Nazi loot.

The secret negotiations now going on in Washington to recover Nazi gold from Switzerland have been carefully guarded, but it has leaked out that Switzerland's policy is to keep all the gold which the Germans stole from France, Denmark, Belgium and other occupied countries and sent to Switzerland for safe-keeping.

Like the Capone gang, the Swiss won't return this looted gold to France, Denmark, Belgium, and other countries from which it was stolen.

The show-down came to a head the other day over two points:

First, the Allied delegations told the Swiss they must give the Allies all the Nazi gold ($130,000,000); and second, the Swiss must hand over one-third of the Nazi stocks and bonds deposited there during the war.

To each of these, Dr. Walter Stucki, head of the Swiss Delegation, said: "No!"

"We do not recognize any obligation to return the gold," he said. He added, however, that Switzerland was willing to give $25,000,000 to help rehabilitate Europe.

"That is an insult!" remarked French Delegate Paul Chareraud, adding that more than $130,000,000 of Allied gold could be proved to have gone to Switzerland.

At that point, Stucki, in a huff, walked out.

That same morning, Randolph Paul, top U. S. negotiator, sent a letter to Dr. Stucki saying that unless the Allies heard to the contrary promptly, they would have to report to their governments the collapse of the negotiations. Stucki hastily replied that he had merely walked out in order to get new instructions from his government.

Despite all this, some Treasury officials urge a lenient policy toward the Swiss. It happens that they have $150,000,000 of assets now frozen in this country including $500,000,000 in gold, and the French are preparing to clap a lien on these assets. Some Treasury officials, however, are opposed.

Not so, however, says Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson, who remembers all the Swiss collaboration with the Nazis during the war.

"Down in my state," droned the Kentucky, "when you bet on the wrong horse, you pay off. The Swiss bet on the wrong horse."

Merry-Go-Round

Representative Hugh Peterson, of Georgia, a strong supporter of the poll tax, also believes in barring the people of Hawaii from the vote. He now sits on action to bring the proposal for Hawaiian statehood before the House. . . . Illinois Democrats are going in for veterans in a big way. In fourteen of the sixteen congressional districts in downstate Illinois—all now represented by Republicans—former G. I.'s will run for Congress this fall. Democrat Mel Price represents one of the districts and will run to succeed himself. Price is a former corporal. In another district Olive Remington Goldman, wife of a G. I. now in Japan, will oppose Republican Representative Rolla McMillan.

Unnoticed by the press last week was this virtual declaration of kinship with the Republican party by a leader of the insurgent Dixie Democrats. Said Representative Gene Cox, of Camilla, Georgia: "They [this Republican colleague on the House Rules committee] know—and it is generally known—that I work harmoniously with them. And that on occasion we find ourselves in complete agreement." . . . Cox grinned like a good sport during one of the recent Democratic harmony dinners, however, when a special song was sung for him. For Speaker Sam Rayburn, of Texas, the song was "Eyes of Texas." For Representative Gene Outland, of California, "California Here I Come." Outland, doing the honors for Cox, sang "Marching through Georgia."

Coal-Strike Negotiators

The appointment of Ed McGrady as chief government negotiator on the coal strike, putting Paul W. Fuller in a subordinate position, caused a storm in the Labor department. McGrady is a former assistant secretary of labor, one of the ablest men ever to serve in that department, and now with the Radio Corporation of America. However, Fuller didn't take the demotion lightly. He protested hotly to Labor Secretary Lewis Schwellenbach who handled the job transfer in his usual diplomatic manner.

What burned up Fuller, an able negotiator who had a fine record in rubber-industry disputes, was that Schwellenbach failed to advise him of his replacement by McGrady.

In fact, he first learned the news from McGrady, who so infuriated him that he threatened to resign.

"I don't think you should hold anything against Ed McGrady," declared Schwellenbach, trying to calm Fuller down.

"My argument isn't with McGrady, and you know it, Mr. Secretary," snapped Fuller. "McGrady is a good man. My argument is with you. I think the least you could have done was to have informed me of your plans. I think I deserved that much courtesy."

Schwellenbach tried to explain that he wasn't ousting Fuller, but wanted him to continue functioning as an associate of McGrady. However, this didn't placate Fuller. Still resentful, he indicated to Schwellenbach that his only recourse was to resign.

Later, however, Schwellenbach apologized for his actions and brought Fuller to work along with McGrady.

"Okay, Mr. Secretary," grinned the conciliator. "I guess maybe I owe you an apology, also. I lost my temper and said some things I shouldn't have."

Europe Must Be Made To Produce, Pettengill Says

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Mussolini and Hitler died and the war in Europe ended a year ago. In Italy it ended almost three years ago. Yet, in terms of hunger, Europe is far worse off than during the war. Because fault is this? Have Allied blunders disorganized the economy of Europe ever more than war? To what extent is this a political failure?

If Uncle Sam, alias Sap, is not always to hold the bag, a re-appraisal of our policy must follow the actual relief of Europe's starving millions. Otherwise, we may be feeding Europe for years. The distribution of scarcity will not suffice. Unless Europe is made to produce, hate will grow from the seeds of our well-meant charity.

Fertilizer Plants Destroyed

Famine comes from lack of the production of food, of transportation, or both. Do you know that we have decreed that no new German locomotives may be built before 1949, and perhaps not then? That we have destroyed fertilizer plants upon which Europe depends for food? And French farmers depended?

We agreed that Stalin should have the only food-surplus area in Germany. Now, as the Communist "Daily Worker" in London says, "Food is an international political weapon."

Our political leaders agreed that some 10,000,000 men, women and children in East Germany should be "displaced persons," torn from their ancestral farms in mid-winter, and shipped in box cars to crowd the American-controlled, food-deficient area in West Germany. As a result, those left under Stalin have a third more to eat than those under our control.

Busy with Appointments

With our State department's enormous capacity for minding other people's business, we appeased the Reds in Moscow and the Pinks in Paris almost to the point of inciting revolution and more starvation in Spain. Then we stuck our big thumbs into the Argentine election, with the result that Peron got the largest majority in thirty years. As we did this, Stalin, with his usual cunning, sent a trade mission to the Argentine to build up good will with the "fast" Peron.

From Poland, an ally 2,000,000 men have been deported to Russia as slave laborers. Their orphaned children, left behind, are thirty per cent tubercular. In Hungary, Stalin's armies of occupation, equal to ten per cent of her population, are living off the country.

For lack of food and machinery Germany's coal miners are operating at about one-third capacity. So, we ship coal to Europe. Hard-hit Britain is now taxing her people $330,000,000 a year to go to Germany. As her chancellor, the ex-chancellor, Hugh Dalton, says, this is "reparation to Germany!" The "London Economist" says our policy "robs the future of hope."

Work Is Questioned

We have told every individual in the industrial heart of Europe that for a generation his standard of living cannot exceed other European countries, no matter how hard he works. So why work? Socialistic programs in Britain and France disorganize production. Privately owned industry, about to have their heads chopped off, do not bother to expand. Why, indeed?

By distorting price relationships, our O. P. A. bureaucrats have sent more wheat and corn to feed troughs in America's barnyards than ever in history. Administration supported strikes cut down steel and agricultural machinery production when our officials knew millions were starving. The administration tolerated a California jurisdictional strike while millions of cans of food rotted on the ground. And as a final exhibit, we have promoted the development of nation-wide "collective coercion" with the closed shop as its weapon, so that a few irresponsible persons can take this nation by the throat and starve it to death. What hasn't they done?

When human beings are hungry we must feed them first, and ask questions afterward. Let us do just that—feed the starving and then ask the questions.

Mornings Of the Famous

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

Milton rose early—at four o'clock (even after he lost his sight). He had someone read to him from the Hebrew Bible. Then he contemplated. Then he had someone read to him again until dinner time.

Tennyson was also an early riser—at seven. After breakfast he would receive friends, and if alone would write all morning, smoking his pipe. Most of his writing was done in the morning.

Arnold Bennett spent his first hours answering letters. He would then take a stroll and put his mind to a plot for a story. In mid-morning he would go out for a walk about the Quartier de l'Europe, which would consume most of his time until he would go to his club for lunch.

George Gissing's mornings were all too often mornings of struggle to write. He tells in his beautiful book, "The Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft," of many of these experiences, and wrote upon one occasion of having risen with head aches, when he could write but two pages all morning—probably because of insufficient food!

Walt Whitman loved to move and walk about in Nature. In his "Specimen Days" he says: "I merge myself in the scene, in the perfect day. An hour or so after breakfast I wended my way down to the recesses of the dell, which I and certain thrushes, catbirds, etc., had all to ourselves." Then he would take a sun bath in some secluded spot, or bathe in a running brook—such a thing as a happy morning.

Sir Walter Scott before breakfast would amuse himself with his "bibliomaniacal hobby," making notes of new acquisitions and entering them into a temporary catalog. After breakfast he would take a walk about his estate, "all around delicious, the rich, luxuriant green refreshing to the eye, soft to the tread, and perfume to the smell." Then he would return to his home and busy himself in his library until dinner time. Work came in the evening.

Tom Moore writes to his mother, while staying at Donnington Park in England. There he gloried in solitude, which rarely he experienced, breakfasted heartily, took strolls, hunted—among books, then went to his bed, where, as he wrote: "I sleep sweetly, no dream of ambition, though beneath the roof of an earl."

Jealousy Is Not Proof of Love, Miss Fairfax Says

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Some girls seem to feel flattered when the man they're going around with is jealous of them. And some wives take it as a compliment when their husbands fly into a rage if they smile at or talk to another man.

Apparently they believe that the greater the jealousy, the greater the love.

The girl who writes the following letter, however, is evidently not quite sure whether this is true or not.

She says: "Dear Miss Fairfax: 'I am a girl of 17, and am going with a boy about the same age. 'He is the kind of boy who is very jealous. If I talk to other boys, he accuses me of going out with them. He doesn't like me to dance with a boy, regardless of who he is. He tells me he loves me, and says he is waiting for the time when he can be together forever. If we have an argument, he doesn't take any other girls out, but he dances with them. Even if he will run out on him or dance with other boys. After he tries me out to see my reactions, he wants to make up. 'He couldn't treat anyone any better than he does me. He is very nice, and give me very expensive presents. In this jealousy a sure way to know he loves me, or just a pretense of love?'

J.A.M."

If your boy friend can't treat anyone any better than he treats you, J.A.M.—if, in other words, the way he treats you is the best he can do—then I would advise you to look around for someone who could do quite a little better than that.

If you talk to any other boy, this one suspects you of going out with him. So obviously he doesn't trust you, but is always ready to believe you're two-timing him. Not very sporting of him, is it?

He doesn't like you to dance with anybody but himself. But if the two of you have a spat, off he goes to dance with other girls, keeping one eye on you to see if you retaliate by floating off in the arms of another boy. If you refrain from the tactics to which he himself resorts, he graciously consents to make up with you. If you don't, I suppose he'd go on sulking. Pretty childish, this kind of business, don't you think?

And so you want to know if behavior of this sort is a sure proof that he loves you.

I say certainly not. The only thing it's a sure proof of is that he's a selfish adolescent who will grow up into a selfish, domineering man, if he doesn't look out, and make some poor girl's life perfectly miserable—if he's ever lucky enough to persuade any girl to marry him.

People don't usually need proofs that another person loves them. They know it by the thoughtfulness he shows for their comfort, his eagerness to make them happy, his concern to do nothing that will wound or annoy them, and his quickness to make amends when things go wrong.

No, jealousy is not a proof of love for another. It's a proof of love for oneself. Self-centeredness is another name for that. And the self-centered person is not capable of true love.

Vitamin C Will Prevent Scurvy, Doctor Asserts

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

There is no reason why anybody in this day and age should have scurvy, a disease which in times past so often proved fatal to sailors on long voyages or soldiers held for months in beleaguered towns where they were unable to get fresh food.

Then, this disorder was a mystery. Medical science had not yet been able to trace its many symptoms, such as tenderness of the muscles, spongy gums, bleeding into the skin and progressive weakness, to the lack of one small element in the diet.

Vitamin C Lack

Today, we know not only that it is caused by lack of vitamin C but that administration of proper amounts of this same substance will cure or prevent it entirely. Thus, it is a pity that so many cases of scurvy still occur, particularly among babies, because of failure to supply them with enough of this essential vitamin.

Dr. Mark F. Osterlin, of Michigan, noted twenty-four babies with scurvy during 1943 and 1944. Of a total of sixty-eight babies with scurvy seen by him in a seven-year period, seven were under 6 months of age, fifty-eight between 6 months and a year, and three were more than a year old.

Scurvy, then, is a disease that occurs most frequently during the latter half of the first year of life. At this time the baby is likely to be receiving a milk mixture without getting enough vitamin C from such foods as orange juice, tomato juice, and vegetables.

Tablet Form

Of the sixty-eight cases of scurvy seen by Dr. Osterlin, forty of the infants had neither orange juice, nor tomato juice, nor were they given vitamin C or ascorbic acid in tablet form. Four of the babies refused to take the orange juice or vomited it. Twenty-four had received insufficient amounts of orange juice, getting only one teaspoonful a day, or the juice of one orange two or three times a week.

In one case, the mother had heated the orange juice before giving it to the baby. Of course, heating orange juice causes the vitamin C in it to combine with oxygen in the air and thus destroy most of it.

It is also interesting to note that only two of the babies had been breastfed and these for only two or three months. The breastfed baby receives vitamin C in the breast milk.

Babies' Symptoms

The symptoms which these infants had consisted of irritability, pain on movement, poor appetite, vomiting, diarrhea and sore mouth. When the babies were examined it was found that there was tenderness of the muscles, some swelling and bleeding of the gums, paleness and bleeding into the skin.

A change in the bones known as scorbutic rosary was present in most cases. This consisted of a sharp ridge which could be felt on the ribs along the front of the chest.

Doctors know the importance of starting foods in the infant's diet during the first month of life, which will prevent scurvy. Even though the baby is breastfed and gets some vitamin C in the mother's milk, additional vitamin C should be given in the form of orange juice or tomato juice and, of course, all bottle-fed babies must receive one or the other of these foods.

If for some reason the baby is unable to take orange juice or tomato juice, tablets of vitamin C prescribed by the physician can be utilized. There is no good reason why any baby should have scurvy.

ADVICE ABOUT KEEPING WELL

★ "The man who thinks to conserve his health by uselessness and ease does not differ from him who guards his eyes by not seeing, and his voice by not speaking. . . . Least of all is it to be assumed that laziness is healthful, if it destroys what health aims at; and it is not true that inactive people are more healthy."

This excerpt from Plutarch's essay Advice About Keeping Well, written over 2,000 years ago, might have been written yesterday. Had medicine and pharmacy been as well developed then as they are today, we are certain he would have stressed the value of a periodic physical examination by a qualified physician. By the same reasoning, it is wise to take your prescription to a registered pharmacist for expert compounding. We are prescription specialists.

Former Resident Of Frostburg Dies in Kansas

By RUDOLPH NICKEL
FROSTBURG, May 12 — James Richardson, 64, a former resident of Frostburg and the son of the late John and Elizabeth (Bowie) Richardson, 141 Hill street, this city, died Thursday, May 9, at his home, Emporia, Kansas, where he had resided for thirty-five years. Prior to his departure from this community, he conducted a confectionery store on East Main street in the building now occupied by Shupe's drug store. He conducted a grocery business in Kansas until a year ago when he retired.

Mr. Richardson was twice married, his first wife being the former Miss Gertrude Bradley, this city, who died in 1925. He was married the second time in 1932 to Miss Kathleen Taylor, of Hope, Kansas, who survives. He also leaves a daughter by his first marriage, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Emporia, Kansas, and a brother, John V. Richardson, Park avenue, this city.

Funeral services were held Sunday with interment in an Emporia, Kansas, cemetery.

Minera County Has Small List Of Candidates

By LUKE McDOWELL
KEYSER, W. Va., May 12—Fewer candidates filed for nomination in the primary election to be held Aug. 6, in Mineral county than in any year since the adoption the Primary Election law.

There are only two county political offices to be filled; a member of the House of Delegates and a member of the county court. For the legislative position John I. Rogers, the present incumbent, filed for reelection; Earl Harman also filed for delegate. For member of the county court John H. Bane filed to succeed himself. These men filed as candidates of the Republican party; no one from the Democratic party filed for either office.

For the board of education which is non-partisan, there are two places to be filled. For the full six-year term, G. Harley Dixon filed to succeed himself, and John A. Price also filed for the full term. For the unexpired term, Martin L. Watson, present incumbent, filed to succeed himself.

The complete ballot as compiled by the ballot commissioners is as follows:

For United States Senator — Claude R. Hill, Oak Hill, and Thomas Sweeney, Wheeling, Republicans; Harley M. Kilgore, Beckley, and J. Buhl Shahan, Elkins, Democrats.

For Congressman, Second district — Raymond J. Funkhouser, Petersburg, Melvin C. Muntzing, Charlesburg, and Melvin C. Snyder, Kingwood, Republicans; Washington Lee Campion, Charles Town, Jennings Randolph, Elkins, Democrats.

For Judge of Supreme Court of Appeals (Unexpired term) — Lewis H. Miller, Ripley, and W. Elliott Nefflen, Charleston, (formerly of Keyser), Republicans; Frank C. Haymond, Fairmont, Democrat.

For State Senator, Sixteenth district — Harvey D. Beeler, Berkeley Springs, Republican; J. Nelson Hicks, Martinsburg, and William C. P. Perry, Charles Town, Democrats.

For House of Delegates — John I. Rogers, Keyser, and Earl Harman, Keyser, Republicans.

For County Court — John H. Bane, Burlington, Republican. Non-partisan ticket, for Members of the Board of Education, full term — G. Harley Dixon, Piedmont, and John A. Price, R.F.D. 4, Keyser; unexpired term — Martin L. Watson, Keyser.

Work Is Displayed
Home Week activities of the Farm Women's Clubs of Mineral county were consummated with a display in the window of the Potomac Edison Company on Main street, Saturday, with all the clubs of the county, including the Potomac Edison, participating in the display. This is the second consecutive year that a May queen has been crowned at May Festivities at the community high school. Last year's May queen was Edna Mackey.

The May court will be Senior Duchess Martha Lee Staup, Senior Princesses Eva Lee Park and Lois Ralston, and Elsie Miller; Sophomore Princesses Shirley Rowan and Marion Agnew; Freshmen Princesses Charlotte Barber and Shirley Morton.

Rose Marie Campbell will be flower girl. Harry Jo Warnick will be crown bearer. Rose Marie and Harry Jo are second and second grade pupils in the Central elementary department. They had the same part in last year's crowning of the May queen.

Shirley Mae Foote and Mary Ann Powers will act as heralds.

A spring concert will be presented under the direction of Joseph L. Derry, music instructor. A variety program has been arranged by Derry that includes several of the musical numbers sung at the April music festival for Allegheny county high schools at Port Hill in Cumberland.

Mrs. Margaret Bell Sloan and Miss Daisy Cline are assisting in staging the May Queen.

Receive Certificates
Mrs. Charles Kopp, acting chairman of the Red Cross home nursing classes in Allegheny county, presented certificates to an adult class of home nursing in Lonaconing Saturday at a luncheon given in honor of those graduating at the Red Cross center, Main street.

Mrs. Lee Witherup, executive chairman of the Red Cross chapter, attended and gave a survey of Red Cross work.

Mrs. Thelma Inskip, home nursing class instructor, was honor guest and was presented an attractive gift by the graduating class.

Those who received certificates in home nursing were Mesdames Mary K. Robertson, Elsie Kipstein, Mary Humphrey, Verdis Doyle, Elizabeth Merrbach, Martha Clark, James Hutchison, the Misses Frances Robertson, Katherine Robertson, Helen Thompson, and Mary Joan Merrbach.

Miss Nellie Sloan, Lonaconing Red Cross representative, and Mrs. Eva Boehm, chairman of the Lonaconing home nursing, also attended the luncheon.

Mrs. Filer Dies
Mrs. Marion Dunn Filer, 65, widow of William Filer, of Wrights Crossing, died Friday night after an illness of five months. She was a native of Midland, daughter of Nathaniel and Janet Dunn.

She is survived by two brothers, Nathaniel Dunn, Midland, and James, Woodland, and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Schriver, Borden Yard, Mrs. Pansy Schaub, Frostburg, and Mrs. Janet Buskirk, Woodland.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:30 o'clock from the home of her brother, Nathaniel, in Midland. The Rev. Raymond Crowe, pastor of the Grace Methodist church, will officiate. Interment will be made in Allegheny cemetery at Frostburg.

CARPENTERS UNION PLANS NIGHT CLASSES FOR APPRENTICES

Efforts will be made by Carpenters Local 1024 to provide night school classes for apprentices now being trained by the local, P. Patrick Allender, business agent, reported yesterday.

The union official said he believed the training should be sponsored either by the Allegheny County Board of Education or by the Veterans Administration.

Allender said the local had discussed the proposed program with the Veterans Administration but had received no results from the conference.

Subjects needed by the eighteen veterans who are now learning the trade are blueprint reading, estimating, use of the steel framing square, strength and stress information about construction materials and a general outline of the construction trade. Allender explained.

The union official said the local feels its responsibility to help the former GI's to become competent mechanics and said modern construction methods are so varied that it is difficult for apprentices to learn all details "on the job."

The local wants the course of apprenticeship after which the men will go before an examining board appointed by the local. Applicants who successfully complete the test are given a certificate from the international Carpenters union which signifies they are qualified journeymen.

Apprentices who fail to pass the examining board will have to complete the fifth year of apprenticeship, Allender explained.

Tomorrow evening's service will be led by Donald Lee Goff, Piedmont, and youth choirs of Port Ashby and Pattersons Creek churches will furnish the music.

Southern States Co-op Territory Will Be Divided

RICHMOND, Va., May 12 (AP)—Southern States Marketing Co-operative territory in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware will be divided into nine election districts and a director elected from each district, under action taken by the co-operative organization at a meeting here today.

The Southern States Marketing Co-operative voted unanimously to change its by-laws to bring about the proposed changes. D. G. Harry, Pylesville, Md., president, announced after the meeting.

Under the proposed set-up, the board of directors will consist of one representative from each of the nine districts and a public director to be elected on a rotation basis by the directors of the extension divisions of the colleges of agriculture in which the co-operative operates.

At the expiration of the term of the present director his successor will come from Maryland, the next three from Virginia, West Virginia and Delaware in the order named. Each term shall be for three years.

Fifteen common stockholders will constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at any annual special or election district meeting of the stockholders. President Harry said. Directors will be elected at primary district meetings, three to be held each year, the third to be held in conjunction with the annual membership meeting at which district elections will be voted on.

The co-operative also agreed today that vacancies on the board, other than from the expiration of term of office, will be filled for the unexpired term by the members in the election district which the director represented at a special election district meeting called by the board.

What's the answer? How can we bridge the abyss between 1886 and 1946? There is only one way. Not with sermons nor threats, nor sentimental whimpers—but with understanding and adjustment—adjustment of our own living as well as of theirs.

WHEN WE ARE WILLING TO MAKE THE SAME CHANGES IN OUR LIVES AS WE DEMAND OF OUR CHILDREN, WE'LL KNOW WHAT MAKES THEM TICK AND BE ABLE TO WORK WITH THEM. BUT HOW MANY OF US HAVE WHAT IT TAKES? HOW MANY OF US REALIZE THAT OLDESTERS AS WELL AS YOUNGSTERS MUST FACE A NEW ORDER AND PUT A NEW PATTERN?

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSE ROBINSON
(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

"WHEN I WAS YOUR AGE—" Grandpa's shocked at the younger generation.

No, he isn't a soured old fuddy-duddy. He's jolly and generous with plenty of up to date ideas. But modern youth burns him up.

"After all I'm not in my dotage yet," he snorts. "I can remember how I felt when I was their age. Kids wanted crazy things then just as they do now. Sulked and rebelled when they couldn't have them. But we listened to reason in our youth. We respect our elders. Followed their standards. We never heard of 'teen age gangsters' then."

Hold it, brother! It's useless to tell a modern youngster what you did when you were his age. He'll smile with condescending pity—if he doesn't give a Bronx cheer. Rude? Yes, but completely logical. For what you did when you were his age can't possibly apply to his conduct today.

Today youth knows—and you should know—that 1886 and 1946 are two entirely different worlds. We've changed more in the last fifty years than in the preceding 500. You're in the atomic age now, tramp, and the customs and conditions of your adolescence are as blotto as Hiroshima.

As a kid in the 90s you knew a security which no youngster enjoys today. There was a fixed order in life and a definite timing. You might rebel but in all you followed. Dad's pattern and felt that he knew the answers for your world's were much the same.</

Former Resident Of Frostburg Dies in Kansas

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, May 12.—James Richardson, 64, a former resident of Frostburg, died at his home in Emporia, Kansas, where he had resided for thirty-five years. Prior to his departure from this community, he conducted a confectionery store on East Main street, in the building now occupied by Shupe's drug store. He conducted a grocery business in Kansas until a year ago when he retired.

Mr. Richardson was twice married, his first wife being the former Miss Gertrude Bradley, this city, who died in 1925. He was married the second time in 1932 to Miss Kathleen Taylor, of Hope, Kansas, who survives. He also leaves a daughter by his first marriage, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Emporia, Kansas, and a brother, John V. Richardson, Park avenue, this city.

Funeral services were held Sunday with interment in an Emporia, Kansas, cemetery.

Mineral County Has Small List Of Candidates

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., May 12.—Fewer candidates filed for nomination in the primary election to be held Aug. 6, in Mineral county than in any year since the adoption the Primary Election law.

There are only two county political offices to be filled; a member of the House of Delegates and a member of the county court. For the legislative position John I. Rogers, the present incumbent, filed for reelection; Earl Harman also filed for delegate. For member of the county court John H. Bane filed to succeed himself. These men filed as candidates of the Republican party; no one from the Democratic party filed for either office.

For the board of education which is non-partisan, there are two places to be filled. For the full six-year term, G. Harley Dixon filed to succeed himself, and John A. Price also filed for the full term. For the unexpired term Martin L. Watson, the present incumbent, filed to succeed himself.

The complete ballot as compiled by the ballot commissioners is as follows:

For United States Senator—Claude R. Hill, Oak Hill, and Thomas Sweeney, Wheeling, Republicans; Harley M. Kilgore, Beckley, and J. Buhl Shahan, Elkins, Democrats.

For Congressmen, Second district—Raymond J. Funkhouser, Charles Town, Melvin C. Munzing, Petersburg, and Melvin C. Snyder, Kingwood, Republicans; Washington Lee Campion, Charles Town, Jennings Randolph, Elkins, Democrats.

For Judge of Supreme Court of Appeals (Unexpired term)—Lewis H. Miller, Ripley, and W. Elliott Neffien, Charleston, (formerly of Keyser), Republicans; Frank C. Haymond, Fairmont, Democrat.

For State Senator, Sixteenth district—Harvey D. Beeler, Berkeley Springs, Republicans; J. Nelson Hicks, Martinsburg, and William P. C. Perry, Charles Town, Democrats.

For House of Delegates—John I. Rogers, Keyser, and Earl Harman, Keyser, Republicans.

For County Court—John H. Bane, Burlington, Republican. Non-partisan ticket, for the Board of Education, full term—G. Harley Dixon, Piedmont, and John A. Price, R.F.D. 4, Keyser; unexpired term Martin L. Watson, Keyser.

Southern States Co-op Territory Will Be Divided

By ELSE ROBINSON

Richmond, Va., May 12 (AP)—Southern States Marketing Co-operative territory in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware will be divided into nine election districts and a director elected from each district, under action taken by the co-operative organization at a meeting here today.

The Southern States Marketing Co-operative voted unanimously to change its by-laws to bring about the proposed changes. D. G. Harry, Pylesville, Md., president, announced after the meeting.

Under the proposed set-up, the board of directors will consist of one representative from each of the nine districts and public director to be named on a rotation basis by the directors of the extension divisions of the colleges of agriculture in which the co-operative operates.

At the expiration of the term of the present director his successor will come from Maryland, the next three from Virginia, West Virginia, and Delaware in the order named. Each term shall be for three years.

Fifteen common stockholders will constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at any annual special or election district meeting of the stockholders. President Harry said. Directors will be elected at primary district meetings, three to be held each year, the third to be held in conjunction with the annual membership meeting at which district elections will be voted on.

The co-operative also agreed to other than from the expiration of term of office, will be filed for the election district which the director represented at a special election district meeting called by the board.

What is the answer? How can we bridge the abyss between 1886 and 1946? There's only one way. Not with sermons nor threats nor sentimental whimpers—but with understanding and adjustment—adjustment of our own living as well as of the times.

WHEN WE ARE WILLING TO MAKE THE SAME CHANGES IN OURSELVES AS WE DEMAND IN OUR CHILDREN, WE'LL KNOW WHAT MAKES THEM TICK AND BE ABLE TO WORK WITH THEM. BUT HOW MANY OF US HAVE WHAT IT TAKES? HOW MANY OF US REALIZE THAT OLDESTERS AS WELL AS YOUNGSTERS MUST FACE A NEW ORDER AND FIT A NEW PATTERN?

Centerville 7, Barton 3.
Frostburg 16, Romney 7.

Al Thomas, making his initial start of the season, limited the Queen City Brewers of Cumberland to six singles in twirling the Westvaco A. to its third straight victory of the season in the Bi-State Baseball League yesterday before a large crowd at Memorial Park, Westernport. The score was 5 to 0.

Westvaco sewed up the game in the fifth inning when "Ole" Raines hit for the circuit with one aboard. Perazzo tried to make a shortstop play of Raines' low drive but the ball eluded his grasp and Raines completed the circuit.

Thomas was aided by two snappy double plays engineered by High, Kirk and See.

Lou Rhee, left fielder of the Brewers, had four putouts and backed up to the fence to make two nice catches.

In addition to hurling a nice article of ball, Thomas hit a single and double and drove in one run.

Bill Stevenson, who started on the hill for Queen City, was relieved in the eighth with two down by "Lefty" Bill.

Coney Trims Midland. The Lonaconing Republican Club also made it three straight wins by taking the Midland Legion into camp at Lonaconing by the score of 4 to 0.

One of the highlights of this game was Willard "Buddy" Henderson's home run clout to right field by the bases loaded in the second inning. McMahon doubled and Stakem singled him home. Then Yaider and Thomas walked to fill the bags before Henderson made his grand slam wallop.

Pat Corrigan then came to the rescue, shutting out Midland the rest of the route. He yielded four hits and fanned ten in 7½ innings and received credit for the victory when Coney scored five runs in the seventh and eighth.

Wood's pass, Tom Warnick's triple and Harry Salada's two bagger knotted it up at 5-5 in the seventh. Shockey's walk, Corrigan's infield hit, Yaider's wild throw and Salada's homer produced three runs in the eighth.

Green played a nice game at short for Midland while Henderson raced into right field twice to haul down bids for base hits Salada and Henderson each hit safely three times.

Reds Trip Barton. A five-run outburst in the fourth enabled the Centerville Reds to defeat the Barton Braves in Centerville, Pa., by the score of 7 to 3.

Bob Cook's triple, singles by Mickey and Clapper, David Rose's three-bagger and Duckworth's fielder's choice featured the five-run uprising.

The Reds tagged Inskip for eleven hits, Bob Cook leading the assault with a homer, triple and double in five trips to the plate. Clapper, in the role of relief pitcher, blanked Barton after replacing Duckworth. A diving catch by Pete Deremer of Davis' fly in right field was the fielding gem.

Pull Two Triple Plays. Two triple plays featured as the Frostburg American Legion walked the Romney American Legion before a large crowd in the Mountaintown City. The score was 16 to 7.

William "Bee" Scarpelli belted a homer, triple, double and two singles in six trips, scored four runs, batted in four rallies and stole two bases. Danny Drew had a perfect day with six singles as many times while George Marble walked a triple and two doubles.

The triple killings were engineered by Danny Drew, Spiker and Edwards, of Frostburg, and Baker and Frye, of Romney. Hughes, Spiker and Edwards also completed a double play.

Carter, who pitched the first four innings left the game with a 9-3 lead and Farrady finished on the mound for Farrady Post.

Hurls No-Hitter. Ray Iser turned in a no-run, no-hit performance yesterday as the Short Gap Point Club softball team trounced Green Spring in a seven-inning game at Short Gap by the score of 12 to 0.

Iser issued two walks and two batters reached first base on errors. "Red" Burkley and Paul Shaffer clouted triples and Joe Powell and Iser hit two-baggers for the winners.

Steelers Sign Star. PITTSBURGH, May 12.—(AP)—Johnny Podesto, former St. Mary's college player, has signed to play with the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Football League next fall, the club disclosed today.

While in the Marines in 1943 Podesto was instrumental in the upset victory College of the Pacific scored over Bill Kern's great Del Monte Pre-Flight team.

Umpire Is Injured. PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—(AP)—A foul tip off the bat of First Baseman Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators struck Umpire Art Passarella and dislocated his jaw during the first game of a doubleheader today between the Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics.

French Netmen Win. PARIS, May 12.—(AP)—France's cup team completed a five-match sweep of its European zone elimination series with Great Britain today by winning the final two singles matches in straight sets.

During the three-day series, the British squad was able to win only one set.

BILL DICKEY TAGS OUT BOSTON RUNNER

YANKEE CATCHER BILL DICKEY and Red Sox Shortstop Johnny Pesky (6) hit the ground in first inning of New York-Boston series played in New York yesterday as Dickey tags out Pesky. Boston player attempted to score on Ted Williams's drive. The umpire is Cal Hubbard. Batboy (foreground) is unidentified.

Cincinnati Reds Assault, Preakness Winner, Earns $243,370 in 14 Races

Single Day's Wagering at Pimlico Track Is $2,219,120

By SID FEDER

BALTIMORE, May 12.—(AP)—Assault moves from the sports to the financial page today—and the whizbees can move practically anywhere—to report that he now is No. 32 on the world's money-winning list with $243,370 in the bank, and with the fancy pipes all ready for slicing away at closing in fast on the sear-gees in front of him.

Just by way of the day's economics lesson, it might be pointed out that the Clubfoot Comet from Texas as the cash register to that tune in exactly 14 races—including yesterday's Preakness—while it took Wednesday just twice as long to play the same tune and Seabiscuit five times as long.

Two down and one to go to become the seventh triple-crown winner in racing history, the chocolate champ put $99,120 in the kitty yesterday and now has his eyes on the $100,000 Belmont, to finish up the crown, and $60,000 apiece for the Arlington Classic and American Derby. If he should ring the bell on those three—and there's nothing around right now who appears ready to ruin his "ringer" he would be up there with the Blacut and practically stepping on Whirl's long tail in the all-time financial folios.

Lord B. Catches Fire
His Preakness win yesterday—although run in the virtually trotting time of 2:01 2-5—wasn't quite as easy as his derby doings the week before. At the end of Lord's stretch run to within a neck of him by catching fire in Pimlico's stretch but Lord B had to put on a full drive for more than a quarter of a mile to get that close, while Jockey Warren Mehrtens, the Brooklyn accent in Assault's Texas drawl, didn't ask in the Derby, where Assault waltzed home by eight lengths. Lord Bowell, who was blocked off in the Derby for the roses, was in the clear all the way going after the black-eyed susans. He had to shoot between horses at the end of the stretch, but had enough room to drive a jeep through it. He'd been riding instead of running.

Nelson Is Winner Over Ben Hogan By Two Strokes

Toledo Umbrella Man Cops $2,000 Houston Prize with Card of 274

HOUSTON, Tex., May 12 (AP)—Lord Byron Nelson, the umbrella man from Toledo, came up with the shots when the pressure was on today to withstand a blazing finish by belting Ben Hogan to win Houston's $10,000 golf tournament of champions with a 72-hole card of 274.

Nelson was two strokes ahead of co-favorite Hogan when the final round started. He clung doggedly to that margin with a three-under-par 68 over the rugged 6,558-yard River Oaks Country Club course.

Ben Hogan, laid down the same score as Nelson today to close out with a 276. The Hershey, Pa., pro was three strokes better than Slammin' Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., who finished with a 70 that gave him third money.

Nelson received $2,000, Hogan $1,400 and Snead $1,000.

Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville wound up fourth at 281 with a closing 70. He played the front line in 31 shots—lowest nine of the tournament.

Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles and Dick Metz of Chicago deadlocked at 283, each shooting a 72 today.

Jimmie Demaret, Houston; Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Little Rock, tied for the next spot with 284's.

California was the first state west of the Mississippi to produce oil in commercial quantities.

More accidents occur in the kitchen than in any other part of the house. No pun intended.

Wisconsin Badgers Cop First Crew Title In Sixty-five Years

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 12 (AP)—It was more than just the championship of the Eastern Association of Rowing Colleges which Wisconsin hauled home today, it was the Badgers' first crew title in 65 years of trying, and were they proud.

To Coach Allen Wals the upset victory yesterday on the ruffled waters of the Severn river meant that rowing might get a boost in popularity throughout the middle west.

To Navy, second by a length in the nine-crew regatta, it meant the end of a two-year reign as the east's rowing champion.

The Badgers, who never before had won an intercollegiate title, took command midway throughout the mile and three-quarter course and finished the east's biggest 1946 rowing race in nine minutes, 12 4-5 seconds.

Columbia was third, a half length behind Navy, while fourth position was held by Rutgers. Cornell's crew, which had been the favorite to take this year's regatta, came in fifth.

The others in order were University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Harvard.

Noted Breeder Dies

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 12 (AP)—Harkness Edwards, manager of Walnut Hall Farm near here and vice president of the Grand Circuit, died today in a Lexington hospital after a brief illness. He was 41.

Edwards, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a son of the late Dr. Ogden M. Edwards, Jr., and Mrs. Edwards, also was one of the foremost breeders of Great Dane dogs in the United States.

Nelson Is Winner Over Ben Hogan By Two Strokes

Toledo Umbrella Man Cops $2,000 Houston Prize with Card of 274

HOUSTON, Tex., May 12 (AP)—Lord Byron Nelson, the umbrella man from Toledo, came up with the shots when the pressure was on today to withstand a blazing finish by belting Ben Hogan to win Houston's $10,000 golf tournament of champions with a 72-hole card of 274.

Nelson was two strokes ahead of co-favorite Hogan when the final round started. He clung doggedly to that margin with a three-under-par 68 over the rugged 6,558-yard River Oaks Country Club course.

Ben Hogan laid down the same score as Nelson today to close out with a 276. The Hershey, Pa., pro was three strokes better than Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., who finished with a 70 that gave him third money.

Nelson received $2,000, Hogan $1,400 and Snead $1,000.

Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville wound up fourth at 281 with a closing 70. He played the front line in 31 shots—lowest nine of the tournament.

Lloyd Mgrum of Los Angeles and Dick Metz of Chicago deadlocked at 283, each shooting a 72 today.

Jimmie Demaret, Houston; Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Little Rock, tied for the next spot with 284's.

California was the first state west of the Mississippi to produce oil in commercial quantities.

More accidents occur in the kitchen than in any other part of the house. No pun intended.

Wisconsin Badgers Cop First Crew Title In Sixty-five Years

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 12 (AP)—It was more than just the championship of the Eastern Association of Rowing Colleges which Wisconsin hauled home today, it was the Badgers' first crew title in 65 years of trying, and were they proud.

To Coach Allen Walz the upset victory yesterday on the ruffled waters of the Severn river meant that rowing might get a boost in popularity throughout the middle west.

To Navy, second by a length in the nine-crew regatta, it meant the end of a two-year reign as the east's rowing champion.

The Badgers, who never before had won an intercollegiate title, took command midway throughout the mile and three-quarter course and finished the east's biggest 1946 rowing race in nine minutes, 12 4/5 seconds.

Columbia was third, a half length behind Navy, while fourth position was held by Rutgers, Cornell's crew, which had been the favorite to take this year's regatta, came in fifth.

The others in order were University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Harvard.

Noted Breeder Dies

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 12 (AP)—Harkness Edwards, manager of Walnut Hill Farm near here and vice president of the Grand Circuit, died today in a Lexington hospital after a brief illness. He was 41.

Edwards, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a son of the late Dr. Ogden M. Edwards, Jr., and Mrs. Edwards, also was one of the foremost breeders of Great Dane dogs in the United States.

Radio Network Schedules Two New Programs

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK, May 12. (AP)—Two new matinee programs directed to women and both five times a week are being displayed on two networks Monday afternoon.

At 2:30 p. m. via MBS starts "Lady Be Beautiful," originating from Hollywood with Ben Alexander as the M.C. The prospectus describes it as "based on the interest of women in charm and appearance." It will have to do with makeup and other items.

At 4:15 on CBS begins "Woman's Club," conducted by Isabel Leighton. It is designed, says the network, "to reflect the American woman's intellectual and cultural interests." Personalities and authorities in various fields will be invited to the microphone. In a sense the program will be a lecture series via radio.

On the answering board of "Information Please," which is to end its current run June 24, is to be Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., Pulitzer prize winner for his book on American history. The program's NBC at 8:30 p. m.

The "Radio Theater" of CBS at 8 is presenting "Pardon My Past" and in doing so is calling upon the acting qualifications of Fred MacMurray and Marguerite Chapman.

The MBS Monday night is to come in the Heavyweight division as presented in 59, Louis. The principals at 9 are Phil Terranova and Freddie Russo.

ABC was to have a Monday night fight as an extra, also at 9, between Bruce Woodcock, British heavy-weight, and Tami Maurilio. But it changed its mind and put back its regular schedule.

To Honor Cresap

OLDTOWN, May 12—Ross P. Shaw, a member of the Cresap Society will pay a tribute of respect to Capt. Michael Cresap, grandson of Col. Thomas Cresap on Memorial day by placing an American flag on his grave. Flags will also be placed on all soldiers' graves in both the Methodist and Catholic cemeteries.

—An electronic microscope demonstrated at the Moscow Academy of Science is capable of magnifying 50,000 times.

Today's Pattern

SIZES
12-20
30-40

Such an amiable dress... it agrees with all summer pastimes. Pattern 9361 has lines that make easy sewing expensive looking. Embroidery transfer included.

Pattern 9361 comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40. Size 16, frock three yards thirty-nine-inch.

Send twenty-five cents in coin for this pattern to The Cumberland News, 39 Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York 11, N. Y. Print plainly size, name, address, style number.

Now ready—the Marian Martin new summer 1946 pattern book! Fifteen cents more brings you cool, new, easy-to-make fashions for all. And, printed right in the book is a free pattern for ballet slippers for home and beach wear!

Big-as-Life Doll

Laura Wheeler

Yes, she's big as her three-year-old mistress and real as can be. This dolly... Thirty-two inches tall with yarn eyelashes and hair to braid.

Easy-to-make doll can wear size-three clothes that your child has outgrown. Pattern 527 has transfer of doll only; directions.

Send twenty cents in coin for this pattern to The Cumberland News, 39 Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York 11, N. Y. Print plainly pattern number, your name, address and zone.

Fifteen cents more brings you our newest needlecraft catalog—the 1946 edition—112 illustrations of designs for prochet, knitting, quilt, embroidery, toys, handicraft—a free pattern for coddle toys printed right in the catalog.

Turner's name, which was in a topcoat at the scene of the empty robbery at the West-Union office, North Liberty on December 10, 1945. Nothing was taken from the place. Detective Lt. R. E. Flynn said the man also admitted robbing the Acme Theatre, the Metropolitan and Lincolnton, the Arcade bowling alley and the Public Service Station.
